School Board Expected to Approve $112,772 in Leases to Seven Tenants

As the school age population declines, forcing the closing of one elementary school and leaving empty classrooms in others, the Board of Education has stepped up its program of renting out space to other educational institutions.

The Board was expected to approve leases with seven tenants in amounts totalling $112,772 at its meeting Tuesday night. Three of the tenants represent a continuing use of space, the others are new. In addition, negotiations are underway with the state Division of Youth and Family Services to lease space at Johnson Park.

New tenants, the space they will be occupying and the amounts they will pay are:

- Mercer County Special Services School District (MCSSD) for youngsters with multiple handicaps including a physical disability will take eight rooms in Johnson Park School beginning July 1 for $36,000;
- Sandbox Tech Nursery School, one classroom at Littlebrook School for $4,320, effective July 1;
- Princeton Cooperative Nursery School, a 10-month lease effective September 1 for the equivalent of 1½ classrooms at Princeton High School for $2,232. Using space planned for nursery school use in the recent renovation, this school will be tied into the vocational education program at the high school.
- The Lewis Clinic for Educational Therapy will occupy most of the upper floor in the Valley Road side of the Valley Road Building for $40,500, effective August 1. School administration offices currently using that space will be moving to the lower floor instead of to Johnson Park School as originally planned.

Continuing tenants include the United Way, which rents two rooms for itself and for the Council of Community Services on the ground floor of Valley Road That lease will be continued at the current rate of $11,520 plus an adjustment based on the Consumer Price Index.

The Princeton Child Development Institute, which has been renting the Stonybrook Building, will continue to do so at $13,200 for a 12-month period effective July 1. And the Nassau Cooperative Nursery School will stay at Riverside School, renting two rooms for $5,000.

But before anyone jumps to the conclusion that the rental income is all gravy for the district, a bonanza that can be applied instantly to hazardous route busing, for instance, Judith Horner, business manager for the Princeton Regional Schools, is quick to point out that there will be costs to offset the gains.

"We want to make maximum use of the buildings," Ms Horner says Empty schools are not good for the buildings or the community and make insurance more expensive. We want appropriate tenants, and the income will help relieve the budget. But there will be costs incurred in heating, lighting, custodial care, electricity, gas and water

"We also want to maintain the buildings," Ms Horner continues, "and there are capital needs, such as blacktopping the driveway at Johnson Park, which

Some Progress Made on Palmer Square Expansion But EDRC Head Sharply Criticizes Collins' Proposals

After several weeks of wrangling back and forth over the specifics of an ordinance that would create a planned commercial development in the central business district–and help pave the way for the Palmer Square expansion by the Collins Development Company–Borough Council finally introduced the ordinance last week and scheduled a public hearing on it for Thursday, June 25.

Council also scheduled a work session this Wednesday at 5 p.m. to consider its own contribution to the redevelopment of the CBD–the proposed parking garage on Spring Street.

All that would seem to suggest two steps, if not exactly giant steps, forward for the much discussed development of downtown Princeton. But, as one has come to expect from this process, the two forward steps were accompanied by one step backward, as the Collins plans for Palmer Square came under sharp attack from the Environmental Design Review Committee, in the form of a detailed report written by co-chairman Ulrich Frank.

Asked at his weekly press conference if he found the process to be long, drawn out, and painful, Borough Mayor Robert Cawley replied, "I don't think anyone expected it to be otherwise."

Collins's plans for Palmer Square face their next review at the Planning Board, where the developer seeks preliminary site plan approval of the project's basic configuration and number of square feet. The Planning Board expects to set two dates early in July for special meetings to hear the case.

The Collins proposal will be presented to the Planning Board–but with no endorsement from Mr. Frank, who wrote in his report that "the EDRC is conscious of a sincere effort on the part of Collins to handle this preliminary effort and proposal as a trial balloon to test public and official reactions. It is not the quality and preliminary nature of their proposal that prevents endorsement, but the quantity of the proposed additions and its impact on the center of town and traffic."

The characterization of the Palmer Square plan as a "trial balloon" was not welcome news at the Collins Development headquarters in Constitution Hill.

"We feel we have a cohesive and strong plan. It's not something we just dreamed up and threw on the table to get people's comments on," said James Harvie, vice president of Collins. "When you're out there paying a lot of interest on your money you can't afford to dilly dally around. This is no trial balloon."

Mr. Frank's report criticized the general concept of the Collins plan as "one of a massive commercial urban development, rather than towards a village square." He argued that no large supermarket should be allowed to dominate the Square, and praised the concept of small business establishments of high quality, but then questioned whether or not they could survive economically. He also stated that the large increase in population of Palmer Square, including about 1,000 new residents and office workers, "will require substantial upgrading of water, storm and sanitary services in the area."

Mr. Frank suggested that "some commitment to an escrow account" for the remedy of a potential flooding problem should be considered.

By far the bulk of Mr. Frank's seven-page memorandum was devoted to traffic concerns. He challenged the assumptions and the observations and data collected by the Collins traffic consultant, the firm of PRC Voorhees. "It will probably take a complete restudy of the overall traffic situation to find viable

Borough Man Who Robbed Bank Here of $10,000 Arrested and Charged by Police Within 24 Hours

Borough police have charged Robert Wright of 17 Chestnut Street, a self-employed plumber, with the armed robbery Monday of $10,378 from the New Jersey National Bank, 184 Nassau Street. Police have recovered $8,735 of the stolen money.

At a first hearing on all complaints held before Judge Russell W. Annich Jr. at 2:30 Tuesday, the 34-year-old Wright was charged with armed robbery and theft and with burglary and theft on a complaint by West Windsor police in which he allegedly broke into a home on the Princeton-Hightstown Road May 22 and took guns, money and jewelry valued at more than $500.

Judge Annich set bail of $5,000 on the West Windsor charges. He then ordered Wright held on the two bank charges and transported to the Mercer County Dentention Center in Trenton to await the setting of bail on the high misdemeanor charges by a Mercer County Superior Court judge.

Wright had been arrested at 12:33 Tuesday–less than 24 hours after the robbery–at Princeton House off Herrontown Road, where, police said, he had admitted himself Monday evening as a patient. Princeton House treats patients with alcoholic and drug problems and Chief Michael Carnevale commented, "I hope he (Wright) gets the treatment he needs."

"It worked out exceptionally well. We're very pleased," added Chief Carnevale on the apprehension of Wright.

Chief Carnevale declined to go into any of the details that led to the charges against Wright. "We received information, we developed that information and the investigation is still continuing," he said. No one else has been implicated in the robbery, he added.

Chief Carnevale did reveal that the armed robber had been photographed inside the bank by bank cameras and that the pictures, developed by the FBI, had been made available to police Tuesday morning.

The investigation was conducted, he said, by Lt. John J. Bellow, Det. William Fitch, Ptl. William Clark and Det. Charles Harris, who issued the complaint warrants against Wright. They received assistance from Lt. Greg Eldridge of the West Windsor police department and from Township Det. Frank Boccanfuso.

we will undertake. I don't think, for instance, we stand to make more than $3,000 from the rent that Mercer County will be paying us for its space in that school."

Rents from the United Way ($11,520) and Princeton Child Development Institute ($13,000) were figured into the budget adopted this spring, Ms. Horner says. The other leases were all negotiated after the budget was drawn up.

The state Division of Youth and Family Services (DYFS) wants the part of Johnson Park School not already taken by the Mercer County Special Services School District for a program for 20 autistic children. If this lease is successfully negotiated as expected, Princeton will be in the unique position of having three schools for autistic children.

In addition to the Princeton Child Development Institute which rents the Stanybrook building for a school of 18 children, there is Eden Institute which runs programs for 40 young people from age 3½-20 in the Nassau Christian Center on Nassau and Chambers Street. There are an estimated 5,000 autistic individuals in the state, of whom 2,500 are under 21.

The Lewis Clinic for Educational Therapy has been occupying space in a former school building at Alexander Street and Route 1 for four years. The Clinic is a non-profit, non-sectarian organization committed to the education of bright individuals with a specific learning disability — dyslexia — and to its study and prevention.

Marcia Lewis, educational director and founder, says that some 70-75 students age 4½-26 and a staff of 18 will be occupying 16 separate teaching units and nearby lounges in the upper floor of Valley Road.

Nielsen Report. Although the rental of facilities and services to other educational institutions is one of the recommendations of the Nielsen Report, Strategy for the 80's, to offset declining enrollments and rising costs in the Princeton Regional School District, the new leases were anticipated by the USE Committee which made the recommendation to close Johnson Park after long study of alternatives.

Dr. Paul Houston, superintendent, Dale Madden, president of the board, and Niels Nielsen, author of the report, met this week with representatives of the State School Board Association and with representatives of the Montclair school district, which is considering similar strategies to maintain educational quality in the face of rising costs and falling enrollment.

Dr. Houston thinks the state School Board Association may convene a committee of school boards, including those of Princeton and Montclair, to explore the issues raised by the Nielsen Report and the Montclair study and the implications for the state as a whole. This may result in a feasibility study as a group activity on the state level in which "we would be delighted to cooperate," says Dr. Houston.

The Nielsen Report suggested that funding be found for a study to sort out which of its proposals are workable and which are not practical, and the board had planned this summer to pursue sources of funding for such a study. If a study is undertaken in a group way at the state level, it may not be necessary to pursue funds for a Princeton study.

Dr. Houston thinks that the School Board Association is concerned about how the cap situation and declining enrollments are affecting the so-called "lighthouse" school districts like Princeton.

Borough and Township Have Different Opinions On Participating in Joint Financial Ventures

Princeton Township is appropriating large amounts of its capital budget for two projects, which, although on Township property, might conceivably be of legitimate interest to Princeton Borough.

In both instances, the Borough was asked if it would participate financially. In both instances the Borough declined.

The first concerns the reconstruction of the sidewalks and curbs along Leigh and Birch Avenues, John and Race Streets. Under pressure from the residents to rebuild sidewalks heaved up by tree roots and in a general state of disrepair without assessing the abutting property owners, as has been the policy, Township Committee acquiesced. The public hearing for an ordinance appropriating $285,000 from the capital budget is scheduled for Wednesday, June 24, in the old Township Hall.

Because the Borough-Township line slices diagonally through Leigh Avenue, putting several hundred feet in the Borough and the rest in the Township, the Borough was contacted to see whether it would want the Township to continue the reconstruction all the way and bill the Borough for the cost. The Borough declined, "probably for financial reasons," Mayor Robert Cawley says, and the new sidewalk will stop at the Borough-Township line a few hundred feet from Witherspoon Street.

The other instance involves what the Township thinks was the Borough's "commitment" to pay a portion of what Green Acres funds don't cover in the development of Turning Basin Park at the foot of Alexander Street. An application for Green Acres Funds was made in 1977, at which time the Borough indicated an interest in the project. The application was put on hold by the state until other Green Acres projects in the Township were completed.

In the course of reinstating the application, Township Administrator Joseph R. Nini called Borough Administrator Mark Gordon to notify him of the renewed application and to ask if the Borough was still interested in participating. The total cost of the project has doubled, from the $80,000 estimated in 1977, to $173,000 approved by Committee resolution May 20. Fifty percent of the cost is expected to come from Green Acres, the rest will be put up by the municipality.

Mr. Nini told Township Committee last week that originally the Borough had agreed to participate to a maximum of $15,000, but his conversation with Mr. Gordon had indicated that the Borough would neither be a financial supporter nor an applicant for the Green Acres funding.

"I'm disgusted," sputtered Mayor Josie Hall. "We never should have asked them. We can't keep Borough residents out of a park built with state funds, but I feel like putting up signs saying something like, 'Despite the lack of cooperation from the Borough ...'

Asked to comment, Borough Mayor Robert Cawley said, "They never contacted us. The Township Administrator called the Borough Administrator, but no member of Committee got in touch with a member of Council to discuss the matter.

"If we had thought it was a binding agreement on our part, we might have given it some more thought," he said. "But don't forget, we have a different financial perspective than they do. They seem to have unlimited capital resources, but we have real cap problems. And they are going to be worse next year."

TOWNHOUSES DELAYED

By Residents' Lawsuit. The proposed construction of 15 townhouses and condominiums on a 2.5 acre tract of land on State Road at Bayard Lane and Mountain Avenue, which might have begun as early as next Thursday, has been stalled by a lawsuit against the developer and her husband, Township Committee, and the Township Zoning Board.

The suit was brought by three nearby residents: William M. Sloane of 214 Bayard Lane; Felton Gibbons of 232 Bayard Lane; and Sheila Leyton of 224 Bayard Lane.

The property is owned by architect Elizabeth R. Moynahan and her husband, Julian. Mrs. Moynahan last week received approval from the Environmental Design Review Committee and was hoping to receive final site review by the Zoning Board at its meeting next Wednesday. If that approval had been obtained, construction could have begun the next day. "I have everything set to go," she said.

The lawsuit could delay the project for months, at least. The residents, represented by Princeton lawyer William T. Sutphin, have asked the New Jersey Superior Court to review the action taken by the Zoning Board and Township Committee in approving the proposed development.

Although the Zoning Board voted 4-3 in favor of the project, the majority was not large enough to gain approval. Mrs. Moynahan then appealed to Township Committee, which approved the project by a 3-2 vote. (It also was approved by the Planning Board, 10-1 and received an earlier approval from the EDRC.)

"Substantial Detriment." The residents' suit charges that Township Committee's action "exceeded the scope" of its proper review function and that the variance that was granted constituted "spot zoning," which is illegal.

To permit 15 units on a tract of land that is zoned for only five "constitutes a substantial detriment" to the Township and "would change the character" of the surrounding residential area, according to the charges in the residents' lawsuit.

"Everyone in the neighborhood wants this project except those three," countered Mrs. Moynahan. "Their case all adds up to the same thing — they don't want any more building there."

Loss of New Jersey Symphony Forces Cancellation of July 4th Pops Concert

The Princeton Pops Concert committee "regretfully" announces that this year there will be no Fourth of July celebration with the New Jersey Symphony Orchestra.

Ruth Thornton of the Princeton Chapter of New Jersey Symphony Orchestra League points out that the Pops Concert was a popular community event attended by thousands over the past four years. It was also a fundraiser to benefit area youth services. The co-sponsors were the Princeton YWCA, the Princeton Youth fund, and the Princeton Chapter of the New Jersey Symphony Orchestra League, which sponsors free symphony concerts for children and youth in area schools.

Formed around an outdoor pops concert featuring a full symphony orchestra and soloists, preceded by picnicking, and followed by fireworks, this year the event has lost its centerpiece, Mrs. Thornton says. The New Jersey Symphony, because of insufficient financial support, has had to cancel its entire 1980-81 season, including its summer programs. Last year, audiences estimated at 170,000 attended NJSO concerts throughout the State.

Whether or not there will be future NJSO concerts depends on the decision of the Governor's Ad Hoc Committee, Mrs. Thornton says. This committee is now in the process of evaluating the needs of New Jersey's arts organizations and determining where support funds should go.

She estimated that the ongoing battle with the neighbors will eventually add one year to the timetable of the project and $60,000 to $75,000 to the cost — "all of which has to be absorbed by the project," she said. "This is a model lesson of how real estate prices are inflated by other than the usual things."

"Fortunately I have some powerful backers," she added, "who are giving me calmness at this moment. They just say that the houses are going to have to go up" in price.

ACADEMY STALLED

On Traffic Issue. Representatives of the Mercer Christian Academy, the interdenominational school which hopes to construct a school for 700 students on Mercer Road near Gallup, met informally Tuesday with Ulrich Frank, co-chairman of the Environmental Design Review Committee.

Mr. Frank, who had expressed reservations previously about the traffic report presented by the academy, reviewed that report with its author, Henry Ney of the Freehold firm of Abbington-Ney, and came away with renewed reservations.

"We agreed to disagree," said Mr. Frank. "Certainly the report was incomplete, and no proposed solution was detailed. I asked Walter Wheeler, the new Township engineer who has extensive background in traffic concerns, to look at the problem."

At the earlier meeting of the EDRC, members of the Stony Brook Area Civic Association expressed concern that the proposed academy, with its main entrance on Mercer Road, would tie up traffic, particularly as cars approaching from the west, or Trenton-Lawrenceville area, attempted to make the left hand turn across oncoming traffic into the school grounds.

"We discussed the possibilities of dual access roads, deceleration lanes, and left turn islands in the road," said Mr. Frank, who added that Mr. Ney had agreed to rewrite portions of his report and furnish back-up material absent in his original presentation.

Noise Problems Too. Further discussion of the traffic issue and the proposal itself are now unlikely until September, since the committee seems incapable of meeting a quorum until the end of the summer vacation period.

Even then the Mercer Christian Academy may have more rough road. "One insurmountable problem for the school," said Mr. Frank, "would seem to be that of noise. I don't see how the noise generated, particularly during outdoor activities, can be kept within the rather strict limits of the ordinance."

Mr. Frank's questioning of the Mercer Academy traffic consultant comes at a time when he is proposing to Borough Council and Township Committee a new ordinance that would require developers to commission traffic reports from a group of engineers preferred by the municipal governments.

"The economics of requesting traffic surveys tends to bias the report in favor of the applicant rather than the community," Mr. Frank said in his proposal. "Since the applicant orders the report, chooses the organization making the report, and pays for the report, this bias is understandable."

Obscure Reasoning. "Since there are many traffic engineers now preparing reports," Mr. Frank continued, "the reports use differing standards to support their judgments. Often the organization of the report and the reasoning is somewhat obscure.

"Since many of these traffic engineers only occasionally have work in Princeton, their background for the reports is to be questioned," he said.

The Longest Day

I pull the shades,
I light the light;
But when the heck
Will it be Night?

Contributed by Elizabeth Bogert

Summer will officially arrive at 7:45 a.m. this Sunday, making it the longest day of the year as measured by the daylight hours between sunrise and sunset.

However, typical Princeton summer weather has already made an appearance this past Tuesday. After some scattered showers early Wednesday, drier and cooler air should arrive, and produce two fairly nice days on Thursday and Friday. It should begin to heat up again by the weekend.

RENT RIFT CONTINUES

At Forrestal Village. While Princeton Borough ponders the consequences of eliminating its eight-year-old rent leveling ordinance, residents of the Princeton Forrestal Village in Plainsboro live with a rental agreement that appears, on paper at least, to be a model for tenant-landlord cooperation.

Not so. In recent months the landlord imposed rent increases of 15 to 20 percent on the tenants and the tenants formed an association and sought court approval to withhold the increase from the landlord. Unsuccessful in that venture, the tenants now have sued the landlord, the Forrestal Apartment Company, and the property manager on grounds of "consumer fraud," among other things.

At issue is a clause in the agreement between the apartment owner and Princeton University — which sold the land and holds part of the mortgage on it — that the units would be for low- and moderate-income families and that rents could be increased only in line with increased operating costs. In exchange the University made available a low-interest mortgage to the developer, who in turn could build townhouse units to be sold for profit.

The Forrestal Village Tenants Association, representing about 70 of the 120 apartment units located there, claims that the rent increases, which ranged from $63 to $75 a month, represent far more than the owner's actual increased operating costs. They believe that operating costs actually have risen only by about $18 a month.

To help resolve the issue the University and its real estate consultant retained to manage the Forrestal lands asked for a review of the apartment company's financial records. That review was completed in April but still has not been released. "What do they have to hide?" asked on tenant, Tamara Sofair-Fisch.

Now a Problem. Ellen Gill, an employee of the University's real estate consultant and the University's spokesman on this issue, said that because "serious allegations

COMPROMISE IS BLISS: Until a week ago, Walter R. Bliss Jr. of 202 Moore Street was best known as New Jersey's deputy insurance commissioner and little known as the vice president of the Princeton Community Democratic Organization. Then longtime Mercer County Democratic Party chairman Richard J. Coffee lost support of his once powerful machine, two other Democrats battled to succeed Mr. Coffee, and finally both gave way to the 36-year-old Mr. Bliss, a compromise candidate. The new county chairman, a 1966 graduate of Princeton University who earned a law degree at Columbia, admitted he was not "a household word" but added "I've rung doorbells and made the phone calls. I'm completely at home with campaigns and that's the name of the game: A county chairman must win campaigns." Bliss's wife, Mary, has also been active in Democratic Party politics in Princeton

Wednesday, June 24, at 8 in the Court Room in the old Township Hall, with extra time scheduled for Wednesday, July 1, if the discussion needs to be continued.

In other business last week, Committee approved the banning of parking on both sides of Redding Road, including the Circle, and reducing the speed limit on Bunn Drive from 50 to 40 mph. Both actions had been recommended by the Traffic Safety Committee.

Mayor Josie Hall reported that General William Whipple will resign as chairman of the Flood Control Commission because he has accepted a position as administrator of the newly created Water Supply and Watershed Management Administration of the Water Resources Division of the DEP.

Mayor Hall praised Gen. Whipple as "someone of incredible expertise and good sense" and said the Township's loss is the state's gain. Gen. Whipple will continue as Flood Control Commission chairman until a replacement is found. Mayor Hall also announced the appointment of Charles Jaffin of Rosedale Road to fill a vacancy on the Joint Civil Rights Commission.

Discussion continued on the Consent Order which provides a procedure for the repair of the sewer lines in return for the lifting of the sewer ban. The Borough has already executed the order which also must be signed by the Sewer Operating Committee and the Stony Brook Regional Sewer Authority as well as the Township.

Committee had inserted a $4 million ceiling limit on the construction cost, but the state removed it, and Committee asked its attorney, Edwin Schmierer, to see if it could be put back into the agreement. Committee also wants clarification of a phrase which says that the state will lift the sewer ban after repairs are made, "provided repairs have eliminated raw sewage bypassing." Mayor Hall said that bypassing into Lake Carnegie or the Millstone is one thing, but she was afraid the state might refuse to lift the ban for a tiny amount of bypassing somewhere along the sewer line.

were made and we felt we didn't have the answers, we initiated a review of the apartment company's records. All through this process the apartment company had the attitude that the books are open and there is no problem. But now there is a problem: the tenants' lawsuit."

The company, she added, "does not want to release the audit pending the litigation."

The tenants argue that the release of the audit is crucial to their case in court. "My hunch is that if the audit came out in favor of the landlord, then the figures would have been released," said Ms. Sofair-Fisch.

Debbie Horner, another tenant who works at the University as a researcher in the biology lab, wondered "why they just don't come out and release the audit and tell us that we're crazy. Maybe I was naive but I figured that since the University had something to do with it, then the University would take care of it."

"Dead Issue?" The principal partner in the firm that owns the apartments, Harold Sarshik, said "It's a dead issue. It's in the midst of being settled amicably. The two attorneys are talking."

To the tenants, that response was just another indication of how far apart they are. "As far as we're concerned," said Ms. Sofair-Fisch, "the suit is just beginning."

This Week's Agenda. The Consent Order will be on the agenda again at this Wednesday's meeting at 8 in the Valley Road Building Meeting Room. Other items on a generally light agenda include the public hearing on the name change of part of Cordova Road and hazardous route busing.

In its work session, Committee will discuss two recommendations from the Environmental Commission. One asks that a member of the Environmental Commission be appointed to the Mercer County Solid Waste Advisory Board and puts forth several suggestions in regard to the County Solid Waste facility. The other is a request for a U.S. Soil Conservation Service Environmental Review Team to take a look at the suitability of certain areas in the Township to sustain high density residential development as envisaged in the Master Plan.

COMMITTEE NAMED

To Study Busing. Mayor Josie Hall has appointed a committee to study the question of hazardous routes busing in the Township and report back to Township Committee by the fall.

The committee is to help the mayor and committee come to a decision on whether or not to extend their contribution for busing into the 1982 academic year. Committee's allocation of $11,000 in its 1981 budget was based on an estimate of what it would cost to bus children in kindergarten through grade five, living on hazardous routes, to school through the end of December. The Board of Education, on the verge of negotiating contracts with bus companies for the whole school year, has asked the Township for a commitment of additional funds for the balance of the year.

The four committee members approved by Committee at its meeting last Wednesday, are Stephen Klein, 351 Herrontown Road, Lauretta Hazlerigg, 161 Autumn Hill Road, Sharon Muzyck, 243 State Road and Nancy Nygren, 451 Cherry Hill Road. All live on roads that have in the past been designated "hazardous," and all have children who have been transported to school via hazardous route busing.

Mayor Hall told the committee last week that she wanted the whole subject of hazardous route busing looked into. "We need a second opinion on whether or not the figures we have been given are sound," she said, "what the standard is for hazardous, and whether some of the routes may no longer be hazardous because of some new sidewalk or bikepath."

She said she realized that asking for a study before making the commitment to the school board is inconvenient for the board, "but that can't be helped — their fiscal year is different from ours."

Committeeman David Blair commented that the school board is not precluded from negotiating the bus agreements and committing their own funds and coming to the Township later for an appropriation. Committeeman William Cherry moved Committee express its "intent" to commit the funds, but his motion was not seconded.

He voiced strong objection to the mayor's plan, terming it an "obfuscation," and warned of the danger to children walking along certain roads in the Township.

During the week the Klein committee met with members of the board who have already been studying routes to see which are no longer hazardous because of new conditions or changes in demographics. The subject was expected to be a major topic on the school board agenda Tuesday night.

The board must decide to what extent it will continue hazardous route busing now that the Township seems to be withdrawing its financial support.

FIREWORKS PLANNED

For Saturday in Quarry Park. The Princeton Quarry Park Association will sponsor a fireworks display Saturday in Quarry Park at the end of East Spruce Street. The raindates will be Sunday, June 21, and Saturday, June 27. Voluntary donations collected in canisters at the entrances before and after the display will benefit the paramedic program of the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad.

The P.Q.P.A. is a neighborhood organization deriving its membership from the Tree Street area of the Borough. The Association was formed in February, 1974, to insure the Borough's acquisition of a former double quarry, then a landfilled dump site, for park space. The quarry was earmarked for high density housing by a developer with rights to the land.

This year's fireworks display, which will begin at nightfall, is of gargantuan proportions, "a hair shy of one-half ton in total weight," according to David R. Guerzini, president of the P.Q.P.A. Mr. Guerzini, who procured and arranged the fireworks for last year's display, has spent nine months preparing for this year's event. He has obtained what he says are the finest Class C Common Fireworks items from five different sources to insure the best quality, quantity and variety of effects.

At 8:30 p.m. sharp a special daylight show for children will be held. Those under 12 years old will have a reserved viewing area, but only during this segment. The show will feature a massive ground-

4 Lanes For 206?

The Department of Transportation has scheduled a public meeting on Wednesday, June 24, to discuss the social, ecoooomic, and environmental impacts of the proposed dualization of U.S. Route 206 from Route 518 in Rocky Hill to the Somerville Circle. The proposed work would also involve some minor improvements and design changes on State Road near the Princeton Airport.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 at the Hillsborough High School Auditorium, Homestead Road, Hillsborough. The session will be preceded by an information center at 6:30, enabling Department representatives to answer questions on an informal basis.

Further information may be obtained from Frank Lewis, Area Coordinator, Office of Community Involvement at 609-292-6802.

LET'S TALK ABOUT

DUTCH ELM DISEASE: What to Watch For

with Sam De Turo

Woodwinds Associates

Once again this summer there are large numbers of Elms in the Princeton area with signs of Dutch Elm Disease. WOODWINDS urges those home owners with one or more Elms to monitor the condition of these trees carefully, before it is too late to take preventive measures to save the tree

If you didn't spray for Bark Beetle prior to bud break, the beetle may have already done irreparable damage. The damage occurs when the insect injects a toxin into the sap stream or cuts off the water supply of the tree by feeding at twig crotches and destroying tissue

Watch carefully, then, for signs of wilting Some Elms are killed outright in a single season, depending on the vigor of the tree before infection. The essential steps in treating Elms are as follows

1 Prune, water well, and feed
2 Spray now to control defoliation by Elm Leaf Beetle (a different insect entirely from Elm Bark Beetle), Scale insects and Mites
3 Keep the tree healthy and vigorous with a regular feeding program
4 Cut down immediately and destroy any dead Elms, or diseased portions of otherwise healthy trees, the Bark Beetle will spread from diseased portions very quickly

WOODWINDS stresses the importance of keeping Elms, and indeed all trees, at the peak of health and vigor a healthy tree can repel its attackers and retain its beauty for many, many years to come!

If you have any questions about Elms or any of your invaluable trees, please call us . We're here to help!

ONE DAY IN MAY: When students in the Princeton High School English classes of Jane Jacobs, Joan Goodman, and Henry Allegretti wanted to learn more about the common ground of literature and politics, they consulted an appropriate source: Fletcher Knebel of 208 Edgerstoune Road, author of the best selling "Seven Days in May" and other books. Mr. Knebel, who also spoke before the Friends of the High School Library, met with the students last month in the recently refurbished library conference room.

aerial battle with more than 700 parachutes that smoke or report. Miniature military action items include planes lifting from aircraft carriers, rocket gun trucks responding to their approach and tanks opposing cannons.

At nightfall the regular fireworks will begin. Mr. Guerzini promises nine different candles set off at least a dozen at a time, followed by 20 varieties of multi-tube items that whistle, glitter, fountain, break into aerial flowers, and shoot colored balls, comets or pearls. He has also arranged special titled displays, such as "Day Interrupts Night," some 12 magnesium starts generating a total of 1.2 million candlepower, and "Blossoming Barrage of Spectral Thunder."

The show will proceed to a rise in the northwest sector of the park where variegated chrysanthemums and peony floral break aerial shells will be discharged. The finale includes a potpourri of hundreds of large floral bursts, thousands of assorted shots and over a thousand small aerial breaks.

HOME IS ENTERED

On Gallup Road. A home on Gallup Road was entered Friday during the hour and 45 minutes the owner was away.

The victim told police that when she returned home at 5:40 p.m. she discovered a side door wide open and the interior ransacked. A missing jewelry box contained four gold charms valued at $80 each, a pair of opal earrings ($60), a watch ($40) and assorted costume jewelry. Total value was $490. Police report there were no signs of forced entry on the side door.

Nothing appears to have been taken from a Russell Road home, where police say the intruder was apparently frightened off by an audible alarm.

Police were notified of the entry by a central alarm system in Linden. While they were on the scene, the owner returned home at 2:46 Saturday afternoon and told police she had left the house at 11:30 that morning. She checked the interior and could not find anything missing.

Police report that the intruder first forced open a window leading into a garage. Once inside, he kicked in a door leading into the house, triggering an alarm.

A home on Province Line Road was entered between 3 Friday afternoon and 4 Sunday afternoon but apparently nothing was taken. The owner discovered a pane of glass broken out of a dining room door upon returning. Ptl. David Cromwell investigated.

In the Borough, a security box in a John Street home yielded a $2,500 gold ring with four diamonds, $5 in coins and personal papers to a thief. There were no signs of forced entry. Police were notified of the theft at 7:57 Monday morning.

Earlier this month, police investigated the burglary of a quantity of silver flatware plus other pieces from a Mercer Street home. An appraisal by the victim placed the loss at approximately $15,000. There were no signs of forced entry, police said.

THEFT REPORT

Chlorine to Pool Cover. The theft of a 100-pound barrel of chlorine valued at $140 from an unlocked garage on Mercer Street and a swimming pool cover were among items reported stolen last week by Princeton police.

The pool cover, a 20 by 40-foot solar blanket, was taken from a Westcott Road home. It is valued at $300.

An employee's 35mm camera valued at $400 was stolen last week from an unlocked office in Frick Lab on the Princeton University campus, and a $300 pocketwatch was taken from the pocket of a coat in a Nassau Street office. The victim is a Lawrence Township resident.

A graduate student reported the theft Sunday of a $200 brown leather suitcase from a lounge in Firestone Library — it contained blank bank checks and personal papers — and a student's cloth handbag was stolen between 3 and 4 Saturday afternoon from a second floor room in the Colonial Club on Prospect Avenue. The victim lost $15, credit cards and a wristwatch.

Two ten-speed bicycles were stolen Monday from the grounds of Princeton High School. One was valued at $200, the other at $100.

There were two victims following a theft last week at the Tower Club, 13 Prospect. One lost a $150 wristwatch, $100 gold ring and $135 high school ring; the second, $15 from a wallet. All the items were taken from a women's lounge on the second floor.

There was an attempted theft of a charcoal grill from a home in the Riverside Drive area. The victim told police that he had heard a noise in his back yard around 3:30 Sunday morning, as if someone were stealing his grill.

Police, in responding, met the victim on Nassau Street. He told them that he had confronted a teenager who had the grill in his possession. When confronted, the youth fled, leaving the grill behind.

Township police report two thefts from an unlocked classroom in the Broadmead University League Nursery School. A Princeton Junction resident told Ptl. Mark Emann that she had left her purse in the classroom and upon returning noticed that her wallet was missing. It contained $70, credit cards and Franklin Bank checks.

The second victim, a Belle Mead resident, had her entire purse taken. She also lost $70, credit cards and her eyeglasses.

Police report that just prior to the thefts a suspicious man, who said he was making a delivery to another classroom, was seen in the building. He was described as white, about 20, six feet tall, heavy set with blonde hair and casually dressed.

ABC CHARGES LEVELED

At Lytle Street Tavern. Three charges against Marv's Lounge, 18 Lytle Street, have been made by two undercover agents of the Alcoholic Beverage Control agency.

According to police, the agents witnessed two female dancers perform Friday afternoon before approximately 40 patrons. Shortly after 2, the agents identified themselves and issued complaints against the tavern for lewd activity, failure to display its liquor license application on the premises and failure to have a complete employees list.

The three charges, in accordance with ABC regulations, will be heard at an administrative law office in Newark. The lounge is owned by Marvin Trotman of 181 Witherspoon Street.

Alarm Extension Granted

Automatic Communications Equipment Corporation of Somerville has requested and received from Township Commitee a 10-day extension for removing its customers' burglar alarms from the police control panel in Township Hall. The firm had previously been granted a 20-day extension of the original June 1 deadline.

The extension was granted on the basis that its refusal would create a hardship for those residents whose alarm system would not have been transferred to a central alarm station by June 20, Chief Frederick Porter commented. The firm has been told there will be no further extensions, Chief Porter added. More than 300 customers are involved in the alarm transfer.

DRIVER IS CHARGED

After Two-Car Collision. Lydia B. LeFaivre, 43, 16 Lafayette Road W., has been charged with driving while under the influence of alcohol, and with careless driving, after she was involved in an accident Saturday night on Route 206 and Lovers Lane.

According to Ptl. John Seeley Jr., Ms. LeFaivre failed to yield while attempting a left turn onto Lovers Lane and collided with a motorcycle driven by Richard L. Pfeister, 32, of Hamilton Square. Mr. Pfeister was taken to Princeton Medical Center for treatment of a fractured leg.

Ms. LeFaivre was later released on $25 bail, pending her appearance July 14 in Township court. Her car had to be towed from the scene, while Mr. Pfeister's motorcycle was a total loss.

FOUR ARE FINED

In Borough Court. Four Princeton area residents were fined Monday by Judge Russell W. Annich Jr. in Borough traffic court.

Fined $20 each were Neal D. McGarth, 89 Dempsey Avenue, stop sign, and Charles W. Young Jr., 127 Wilson Road, red light. Careless driving cost Frederic A. Milholland, 17 Hibben Road, $25, while Elizabeth A. Direcchio, 10 Hopatcong Drive, Lawrenceville, paid $23 for speeding.

In Township court last week, Judge Sydney Souter fined Glenn J. Nelson, 11 Wycombe, Princeton Junction, $265 and revoked his license for 60 days for drunken driving.

MAJOR LAND SALE SET

At Forrestal Center. Merrill Lynch, the nation's largest brokerage house, has announced that it is negotiating for the purchase of 250 acres of land in the Princeton Forrestal Center on Route 1 in Plainsboro. Once completed, the transaction could add as much as $25 to $30 million in cash to the endowment fund of Princeton University, which owns the land and is developing the 1,600-acre center into a multiple-use office, research, residential, and commercial area.

Merrill Lynch announced that it is seeking the land to use as the site of an education center for the more than 6,000 employees trained by the company each year.

The firm, which underwrites much of the financing for New York City and New York State, emphasized that it had no intention of moving its headquarters from its current location at 1 Liberty Plaza in the Wall Street Area.

The parcel to be sold to Merrill Lynch is located in the southern portion of the Forrestal Center, off Plainsboro Road. It is the second piece of property in the office-research zone that has been sold by the University — the first was a 70-acre parcel purchased by the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation for its national headquarters.

The money raised by that sale became, in effect, the seed money for the subsequent development of the center.

firms located at the Forrestal Center, principally Prudential — which has constructed several office buildings that are now rented to a variety of tenants — and Scanticon — a Danish company which has constructed a conference center there — all lease their land from the University.

The current cost for 50-year leases is believed to be $125,000 per acre. The price of the land being sold to Merrill Lynch is expected to be somewhat less than that amount per acre, though neither the Forrestal Center nor the brokerage firm would disclose the exact price. In addition, the University is also expected to strike some agreement on the design quality of the development undertaken by Merrill Lynch, as it has with other developers controlling land on a lease basis.

Forrestal Center officials seemed pleased with the imminent sale but emphasized that the development potential of the center is far from exhausted. "This is a big transaction," said Eugene Biddle, marketing director of the center, "but Forrestal Center is a big place."

In the master plan for the development, only 600 of the 1,600 acres were reserved for office-research. The Merrill Lynch acquisition represents more acreage than all the other land already developed, but it still leaves about 200 acres for further development. "I wouldn't want to give anyone the impression that the Forrestal Center is now out of business," Mr. Biddle said.

SENIORS INVITED

To Landau Picnic. Princeton Borough and Township residents 60 years of age or over are invited to the annual picnic for senior citizens on Wednesday, July 15, from 4 to 7 p.m. at the Princeton Inn College on Alexander Road. The event will be held inside in case of rain.

Senior citizens must register to attend, and may do so by calling Jocelyn Helm, director of the Senior Resource Center, at 924-7108, from 9 to 4 on weekdays. Transportation will be provided and arrangements will be made for those in wheelchairs.

The senior citizens picnic, which attracts 300 to 350 people, is sponsored each year by the Landau family as a gift to the Princeton community.

Chairmen of this year's picnic are Princeton Borough Council members Barbara Hill and Richard Macgill; Princeton Township Committee member Winthrop Pike; and Recreation Department program supervisor Denise King.

HOST FAMILIES NEEDED

For 25 Italian Students. Twenty-five Italian students will arrive in Princeton July31, and stay through August 28 as part of an educational travel program called Interstudy.

"We need 25 host families from the Princeton area," says Don Blankenbush, group representative, who may be called for information at 737-1630 or 737-1826 after five. "The project is a cultural exchange, with students and their host families sharing information and family experiences."

This summer, the students, while living in area homes, will study English and have discussion groups with local teens, and hear leaders in the community talk about their positions. The classes will be held at the John Witherspoon Middle School in Princeton. The afternoon schedule will include field trips to places of cultural interests, recreational and other activities.

Interstudy, in the past few years, has arranged programs for more than 16,000 students from foreign countries to visit the United States and Canada. This is the first time the program will be in Princeton.

TWO RECEIVE ARAP SCHOLARSHIPS: Frank Liao and Albert Wang of West Windsor/Plainsboro High School received $500 engineering scholarships presented by Dr. Brian Quinn, president of Aeronautical Research Associates of Princeton, Inc., 50 Washington Road. Mr. Liao, son of Kuen and Sue Liao, 339 Clarksville Road, Princeton Junction, will enter Cornell University in the fall. Mr. Wang, son of G.T. and Sue Wang, 41 Slayback Drive, Princeton Junction, will attend MIT.

CRAFT SHOW PLANNED

At Shopping Center. The Princeton Shopping Center will hold a Crafts Festival on the mall Saturday from 10 till 5. The rain date is June 27.

More than 30 area craftspeople will demonstrate, display and sell their work. Specialties include quilt-making, beekeeping (including the sale of honey and beeswax candles), silver jewelry, bread dough art, wooden toys and woodenware, soft-sculptured dolls, Christmas ornaments, portrait sketching, needlework, stained glass, and painted rock sculpture.

Featured from 12 till 2 will be the Tripping Upstairs Band. This group plays contradance music every Thursday night at Wilcox Hall at Princeton University. Named for an old Irish jig, the band plays ancient Irish and Scots music plus Appalachian fiddle tunes of the Southern United States.

Lunch and snacks will be available at the center's many eating places and there is always plenty of free parking. For further information call 921-6234.

Tentatively titled, "Parent and Child," the group will hold its first meeting Tuesday at 7:30 at Christ Congregation, Walnut Lane and Houghton Avenue, across from Princeton High School.

"If only we had had this when our children were growing up" is what several mothers, some widowed, some divorced, say about the idea of a supportive group consisting of mothers, now without husbands, who are raising young children. The idea originated with two such mothers as they talked about their problems in raising children on their own. They felt that problems are often magnified by society's negative expectations of such families.

The group is seen as a way in which mothers can meet and discuss their problems and mutually encourage each other, breaking the cycles of negative expectations. Such a group could then speak to churches, schools and juvenile authorities about children's need for dignity and respect.

Three Quakers are willing to serve in an advisory capacity to the group. They are Carol Scholtz and Esther Todd of Princeton and Ruth Gage of Lawrenceville. All have had experience with children and families professionally and one has raised seven children while divorced.

WRITING WORKSHOPS SET

By Helikon at MCCC. The Helikon Writing Program and the Mercer County Community College Center for External Programs will sponsor writing workshops for children and adults for a two-week period, beginning July 6.

The workshops include Create-a-Book for 2nd and 3rd graders; a course in Creative Writing for 4th and 5th graders, and another for middle schoolers; open writing for adults and a teenage writing workshop. The instructors will be Loretta Sherman, Beth Trent, Carol Tindall and Laura D'Amore. The workshops for young people will be held Monday through Thursday from 10 to noon, while the adults will meet on Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 7-9 for four weeks.

The Helikon Writing Program is a non-profit organization of writers and teachers who believe that there is a writer lurking in everyone. Enrollment is limited, and the cost for each of the series is $50. Registration and information is available by calling Wayne Forman at MCCC, 586-4800, ext. 270; Freda Hepner at Helikon, 448-4344 or 924-5782.

ONE SESSION COURSES

At YWCA. The Adult Department of the YWCA will offer a series of one-session courses during the month of June.

The series begins with a Travel Planning Workshop led by Bob Gittleman. To be held on Monday, from 8-9:30 p.m., the workshop will discuss vacation objectives and locations, establishing priorities, working within a budget and travel resources and information. The fee is $4 per person or $6 per couple.

Greenhouses and Solar Collectors will be the topic covered in the session led by Stuart and Charlotte Robson, agents for Lord and Burnham. Various styles in greenhouses, automatic watering, misting and timing devices will be discussed as well as alternate types of heat and light. The session is scheduled for Tuesday from 7:30-9, and the fee is $6.

Charles Geter, Chief of the N.J. Division of Travel and Tourism, will offer a slide presentation of historic and scenic tours, special summer events, where to pick fruits and vegetables, fall foliage tours, campgrounds and parks in the state of New Jersey. This session is offered on Wednesday, June 24, from 7:30-8:30. The fee is $4.

Brian Faughnan will lead a workshop on Thursday, June 25, from 7-9 on General Bike Maintenance, Repair and Adjustment. The fee is $6.

Martha Lou Stohlman will discuss the advantages and disadvantages of traveling alone in a session on Monday, June 29, from 7:30-8:30. The fee is $4.

All of the sessions require pre-registration. For further information and registration call the Princeton YWCA Adult Department at 924-5571.

DIPLOMAS PRESENTED

To Chapin Graduates. William Jannen, Jr. of Princeton, president of the Chapin School board of trustees, presented diplomas to 26 eighth-grade graduates at the 49th commencement ceremony. E. Parker Hayden, Jr., a member of the board of trustees and father of three Chapin alulmni, was the guest speaker.

Other participants included graduates Paul Vanden Heuvel, Stephanie Lazer, and William Allen, who read original poems and essays about Chapin. The flag salute was led by Nancy Freedman, the graduate with the longest attendance; Jane Webb performed a violin solo; Heather Wyckoff read Rudyard Kipling's "If," and James Duffy presented the class gift to the school. The honor of introducing the guest speaker went to John Johnson.

Remove That Brush!

The Township Engineering Department wants to remind residents that it is against the law to deposit brush or any other material in or along a public street in hopes that some magical genie will come and whisk it away in the middle of the night.

That magical genie, in the form of Township trucks, comes only twice a year during spring and fall clean-up weeks. And at this point, you are too late for the spring one and too early for the fall.

According to the department, unsightly piles of debris have been observed on many Township streets, and residents who have put it there are requested to remove it immediately.

Headmaster Thomas E. Thompson presented prizes and awards to the following: The Roberts History Prize went to William Allen, the Procaccino Art Award winner was Jenny Lindabury; the two winners of the Physical Education Prizes were Jane Webb and William Allen; and Eric Davies received the Mildred Brown Reading Award.

The Chapin Community Award for the "student who participated enthusiastically and made significant contributions to the life of the Chapin Community" was awarded to James Duffy. The Chapin Citizenship award, given to Peter Spagnoli, describes the winner as "the student who, by his conduct throughout the year, has been an example of the Chapin tradition." Jane Webb received the Francis Chapin award for "citizenship and high scholastic Achievement," and the Trustees Award for the "student whose attitude in the classroom and conduct among his fellow students constitutes outstanding citizenship" was won by Kim Travers and James McConnell.

RETIREES HONORED

At University Reception. Princeton University has honored 47 members of the non-academic staff, who are retiring after 10 or more years of service, at a reception given by President William G. Bowen. Collectively they

From Lawrenceville, John J. Henry, 176 Drift Avenue, carpenter with the Maintenance Department, 11 years; Jeanne A. Krug, 123 Villanova Drive, library filer, 14 years; Theodore W. Linton, 201 Village Mill West, mechanical engineer with PPL, 23 years.

Rent Hearing Set

The Borough's proposed new rent registration ordinance is expected to receive its public hearing and final vote from Council next Thursday, June 25, at 8 p.m. in Borough Hall.

The ordinance would replace Princeton's old system of rent control with mandatory safety and health inspections tied to increases in rents. The new ordinance would not limit the amount of rent increase that could be levied by the landlord.

PU STAFF HONORED

For Long Service. Princeton University honored 35 members of the non-academic staff at a reception given by President William G. Bowen.

The employees were recognized for having completed 25 years or more of service to the University during 1980-81. Each veteran employee received a captain's chair with a reproduction of the Princeton seal and an inscribed bronze plate attached

The annual ceremonies honor members of the administrative and support staffs, professional librarians, and professional technical and research staff members.

Nineteen of those recognized work at Princeton's Plasma Physics Laboratory, where scientists are developing means of using controlled fusion as an energy source.

The staff members from Princeton cited by President Bowen are Robert S. Christie, 276 Dodds Lane, senior engineer at PPL; Bruce H. Edwards, 551 Meadow Road, deputy director of the Office of Personnel Services; John M. Greene, 108 Fisher Place, senior research scholar at PPL; Dorothy Lupichuk, 17 Harriet Drive, editor of the Princeton Weekly Bulletin in the Communications-Publications Office;

Also, Barbara C. Macauley, 188 North Harrison Street, office assistant IV with the Princeton Education Center at Blairstown; Giovanni Mattera, 41 Carnahan Place, janitor with Building Services; Aime Piho, 19 University Place, librarian L-2 with the University Library; Katherine E. Weimer, 112 Random Road, research physicist at PPL.

From Princeton Junction, Frank K. Bennett, 6A Jeffrey Lane, managing engineer at PPL; Homer M. Hill Jr., 7 Scott Avenue, lead engineer at PPL; and John Nicol, 33 Wallace Road, drafting specialist at PPL.

From Lawrenceville, Joseph File, 10 Millbrook Lane, senior engineer at PPL; George D. Martin, 45 Merritt Drive, senior engineer at PPL; and John P. Thomas, 14 Titus Avenue, mechanical engineer at PPL.

SWIM CLASSES LISTED

By YMCA. The YMCA has scheduled new summer swim lessons for boys and girls in addition to the existing summer classes. Registration is now being accepted for all summer programs and camps at the YMCA, Paul Robeson Place, 924-4497.

The new classes for parent-child swimming are Monday and Wednesday or Tuesday and Thursday, 1:30 to 2, for four weeks. An eight-week class will be held Saturdays, 9:30 to 10.

The new class for grade school lessons is Monday, Wednesday and Friday 4 to 5 for four weeks. This class may be combined with the Tuesday and Thursday class for lessons five days a week.

In addition to the new classes, there is the regular summer schedule of swim lessons, programs and camps. Swim lessons are being conducted for parent-child ages six months to three years old; pre-school children ages four to six years old; grade school children ages six to 14 years old; and adults. Class lengths vary from two weeks to eight weeks.

Some classes begin the week of June 22, with other classes starting up throughout the summer.

WINDOW SHATTERED

By Grocery Cart. A large plate glass window of Center Stationers in the Princeton Shopping Center, measuring 6'x12', was shattered last week when someone pushed a shopping cart into it. Police said the impact left a four-foot hole in the window.

BUG-OF-THE-WEEK

By J. Drew Foster, Entomologist

FALL WEBWORM

Now that you've learned the difference between eastern tent caterpillars and gypsy moth caterpillars, you're finding yet another defoliator in your trees. It's fuzzy, but it's light yellow in color. It spins a web, but it's irregular in shape, not pyramidal. It's the fall webworm.

These caterpillars are usually light yellow, with fine, dark stripes and spots; long, light colored hairs; and a dark head. They grow to about 1¼ inches long, and live gregariously, feeding within a web they spin around branch tips.

The adult moths have been emerging from the soil since May, and after having mated, the females have layed their eggs in bunches of several hundred on the undersides of leaves.

The eggs hatch in 7-10 days, and the caterpillars begin to feed and construct a web. The feeding will continue for about one month. The caterpillars then crawl to the ground to construct cocoons and pupate in the soil. There they overwinter.

Control measures should be applied when the nests are first noticed. The caterpillars have been hatching for several days, and while their nests are still very small they are easily pruned out with shears or a pole clip. Where infestations are serious, or out of reach, spray applications may be necessary.

Fall webworm damage is generally more aesthetic than health-threatening. However, a severe infestation can strip a tree of its foliage. Fall webworms feed on a wide variety of deciduous trees and shrubs, so take a good look all the way around your landscape.

Call us for pest management applications and consultation.

Topics of the Town

Pd. Mark Emann responded after police received a call at 4:24 Sunday afternoon. There was no estimate of the replacement cost.

AWARDS PRESENTED

By Eden Institute. Eden Institute, a special school for autistically handicapped children, has presented bronze plaques to individuals and organizations in appreciation for their unselfish and active support of the school.

Recipients were, Helen Boehm, chairman of the board of Boehm Studios; the East Windsor Woman's Club; Ann Gross of Ann Gross Graphics in Pennington; Jeanne Silvester, radio commentator of WHWH in Princeton; The Junior Friday's Club of Hightstown; Don Remer of the Pennington Quality Market; Nancy Richardson, Director of the Princeton Cooperative Nursery School; and Joe Bendas, Manager of the Princeton WAWA Market. Also special recognition certificates were presented to Peter McAteer, Steven Storey, and William Galias.

The awards were presented at the annual dinner by Bill Reidy, President of Eden's board of trustees, and Dr. David L. Holmes, director of Eden Institute.

READING CLUB SET

By Rocky Hill Library. The Mary Jacobs Library in Rocky Hill will begin the annual Summer Reading Club on Friday. The Big Foot Reading Club is open to all children who can read and write by themselves.

The first 150 children to sign up will receive a coloring poster. A child will add a piece of the Big Foot puzzle for every five book reports handed in. Each puzzle piece is a chance to win a prize. Rules are available at the library.

This program is free and open to the public. For further information, call the library at 924-7073

JOURNAL THREATENED

By Lack of Funding. The Center for Analysis of Public Issues, which publishes the New Jersey Reporter magazine, may be forced to close its doors for lack of funding.

An independent, non-profit public policy organization located at 16 Vandeventer Avenue, the Center was founded 11 years ago to investigate and analyze the issues and problems facing New Jersey. During the past decade, the Center's reports and magazine articles have earned respect for their objectivity and influence. If new funding cannot be found in the next three months that work will come to an end, predicts CAPI president Tom O'Neill.

To continue to publish the New Jersey Reporter, the Center needs to raise about $250,000 — $100,000 more than last year. "That's a big increase," acknowledged Mr. O'Neill. "But what it really does is make up for the effects inflation has had on our budget over the past several years."

The Center's operation budget is comprised of foundation grants, subscriptions to its magazine and contributions by individuals and corporations. Since 1970, the major source of support has been the Fund for New Jersey, an independent foundation that has granted the Center more than $750,000 during the past decade but is now reducing the amount of its annual grant.

CAPI intends to appeal to the state's major foundations to raise the funds it needs. It also plans to continue its effort, begun last September, to attract contributions from New Jersey corporations. To date, 28 firms, including Johnson & Johnson and Prudential, have contributed more than $11,000 to the Center.

Princeton's Richard Leone, chairman and founder of CAPI, commented, "This is a tough time for all non-profit groups. Inflation is particularly hard on them.

"No other state, he added, "has an organization quite like the Center that pokes and pries into public affairs, and no other state needs one so badly as New Jersey. It would be a shame to lose this independent watchdog, but if we can't find new sources of support, that's what's going to happen."

If the Center cannot attract new funds, it will attempt to continue as a research organization. Maintaining a minimum staff of two, however, will still require $16,000 beyond what it is able to project for its next fiscal year.

The Center currently has three research projects underway: a study of New Jersey's foster care review process; a guidebook to help citizens understand and deal with municipal governments; and an analysis of the major issues which New Jersey faces in the 1980's.

In addition, The Center has begun work on the 1982 New Jersey Political Almanac, which contains an analysis of each legislative election, a description of each legislative district and biographies of all senators and assemblymen. The current edition has won the state bar association's annual book award

OFF TO A FIRE? Not this time, but the Fabled Fete engine rides were briefly interrupted Saturday while the engine responded to a real fire alarm.

$184,000 GROSSED

At 28th Hospital Fete. Bannered tents, a hot air balloon and images of castles and fabled figures beckoned the crowds to gather on the fields of Princeton University last Saturday to celebrate the 28th Princeton Hospital Fete, this year dubbed the Fabled Fete.

A record attendance participated in the outdoor entertainment which grossed more than $184,000 for the Medical Center at Princeton Foundation.

Co-chairmen Colleen Hall and Jean Parsons and their activities chairmen, clad in the red and purple colors of this year's fete, were jubilant over the weather, attendance and spirit of this year's event, which was dedicated to Jack Kauffman, the recently retired President of the Medical Center.

The 4th annual June Fete 10K race, sponsored by Princeton Bank, wound its course out and back over Borough and Township streets in the vicinity of Princeton University, with runners of all ages from near and far competing. Two competitors from Colorado were entered, and participant ages spanned from 62 years old to 8 years, with both the oldest and the youngest completing the course.

The overall winners in the men's category were John Woodside of Princeton in first place with a time of 32.01 minutes, and Timothy Rollings in 32.36 and Mark Muyskens with a time of 34.04, in second and third places respectively.

The first female finisher was Barb Alm, whose time was 39.46. Barbara Elias came in second with 40.06, and third place went to Lorraine Gersitz with a time of 42.53.

William R.L. Dorman of Province Line Road was the winner of the 1981 Mercury Lynx wagon from Nassau-Conover Motor Company. John Abernethy of Princeton won the Rotary Meat Raffle of $350 worth of beef supplied by Davidson's Market.

The crowds visiting the fabled kingdom displayed a giant's appetite for the food and beverages being served. Smorbord sandwiches, barbequed chicken, frozen casseroles and desserts, calico-bedecked baked treats, strawberry shortcakes and sno-cones disappeared rapidly, and a record 45 kegs of beer were emptied in the course of the day's activities.

Dennis Doody, president of the Medical Center at Princeton, and Jane Schowalter, president of the Auxiliary, expressed their thanks to all the volunteers who worked so hard to make this year's profits possible. Planning for next year's Fete will soon begin.

Sharon Bilanin and Carol Jefferson, co-chairmen of the 1982 Fete, encourage everyone who would like to volunteer in any way to leave their names with Valerie Dalto at the information desk at the Princeton Hospital.

BOOK DISCUSSIONS SET

For Juniors at Library. A Junior Great Books discussion group will be offered at Princeton Public Library during July and August for children who will enter 6th grade next fall.

The program offers children an opportunity to read and discuss a variety of literature and to develop their ability to read thoughtfully, to ask questions, and to remember what they have read.

Participants in the group will receive their own copies of the stories to be discussed and will be asked to read selections before each session. Registration is now available for the series which will meet at 10:30 on Tuesdays, July 7-August 4. Discussion leaders will be Leslie Perkins and Dudley Carlson. For further information call Mrs. Carlson at the Library, 924-9529.

Degrees and Diplomas Awarded to Princeton Area Residents

Princeton area residents continue to receive degrees and diplomas at commencement exercises at schools and colleges across the country.

John W. Konvalinka Jr., son of John W. Konvalinka of 24 Gordon Way, graduated from the White Mountain School, an independent, co-educational college preparatory school in Littleton, N.H.

Lawrence F. Carnevale, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas L. Carnevale of Cherrybrook Drive, received his Juris Doctor degree cum laude from Temple University Law School. An alumnus of the Hun School, he received his undergraduate degree at Dickinson College. Mr. Carnevale will begin the practice of law in New York in the fall with Cadwallader, Wickersham & Taft.

Selden D. Hick of Cherry Valley Road has been awarded a master of social service degree from Bryn Mawr College.

Daniel Merians, son of Dr. and Mrs. Sidney Merians of 114 Elm Road, has graduated from Stanford University, Palo Alto. He majored in psychology.

Navy Ensign Mark W. Kelly, son of William B. Kelly of 214 Hale Street, Pennington, has been commissioned in his present rank upon graduation from the U.S. Naval Academy, Annapolis, Md.

Ellen M. Gould, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Kenneth S. Gould of Philip Drive, graduated this month from Trinity College, Conn., with a BA degree. She attended Bowdoin and Barnard Colleges as a visiting student. She is presently working in New York for Dino di Laurentiis Productions as a financial assistant.

James P. Gorman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert P. Gorman, 1097 Stuart Road, was awarded a bachelor of arts degree at Colgate University's 160th commencement.

A 1977 graduate of Princeton High School, he concentrated in history at Colgate. His undergraduate activities included editor-in-chief of the Colgate News, election to Konosioni Honorary Society, and crew.

He plans to join the Peace Corps this fall.

Helene Yim, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Michael Yim of Franklin Avenue, has received a Bachelor of Fine Arts degree from the Rhode Island School of Design, where she majored in graphic design. A graduate of Princeton High School, she plans to settle in the Boston area.

Max Holmes has received his B.A. degree from Harvard University in Cambridge, Mass. He graduated in 1978 from The Lawrenceville School. This fall he will be attending the Columbia University School of Law in New York City.

Mr. Holmes is the son of Ute and Archie Holmes of Griggstown.

Jonathan Langberg, son of Mrs. Meredith Langberg, 74 Wheatsheaf Lane, has earned the M.D. degree from the University of California at San Francisco. He will do his internship and residency in internal medicine at Peter Bent Brigham Hospital, Boston, Mass.

Thomas K. Hernquist, son of Dr. and Mrs. Karl G. Hernquist, 667 Lake Drive, graduated from the University of Virginia, Charlottesville, Va., with high distinction in both French and economics. He graduated from the Lawrenceville School in 1976.

Mr. Hernquist is planning to enter a program in sports medicine and to coach crew at the University of Virginia in the fall.

Five Princeton area residents have received the Juris Doctor degree from Seton Hall University Law School. They are Richard Elden, 357 Dodds Lane; Regina Mahoney, 1267 Stuart Road; Karen Lembo, 7 Windsor Drive, Princeton Junction; Debra Tantum, 143 South Mill Road, also Princeton Junction; and Edward Griffin, 57-02 Fox Run Drive, Plainsboro.

Thomas O. Morby, son of Mr. and Mrs. Orville Morby, Mosher Road, has graduated from Alfred State Agricultural and Technical College, Alfred, N.Y. He majored in agricultural power and machinery. Another Alfred graduate is William D. Cambell of Woodward Road, Belle Mead, who also majored in agricultural power and machinery.

Rachel L. Ijams, daughter of Mrs. Theodore Crane, Rosedale Road, and Harrison Buck, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander K. Buck of Province Line Road, have received bachelor of arts degrees from Hobart College. Miss Ijams majored in psychology and was on the Dean's List; Mr. Buck majored in American studies and graduated in three years.

GRADUATION HELD

At Stuart School. Thirty-two students received their diplomas at Stuart Country Day School's 17th commencement exercises on Friday, June 5.

Sister Frances de la Chapelle, former head of the upper school and currently director of admissions and college guidance at Newton Country Day School of the Sacred Heart in Massachusetts, was invited by the Class of 1981 to give the commencement address. She was introduced by Joseph F. Crowley, chairman of the Stuart Advisory Board.

The invocation was delivered by Sister Elizabeth Carr, head of the middle school. Headmistress Sister Joan Magnetti presided over the exercises. The class valedictorian was Marjorie Fitton, who also received the President's Award from the Women's College Club of Princeton.

Sally Weatherill was the salutatorian. She also received the Bausch and Lomb Science Award for having attained the highest scholastic standing in scientific subjects.

Karen Ling received the Peter Mark Science Award, established last year in memory of the late Peter Mark, professor of electrical engineering and computer science at Princeton University.

This year's recipient of the Stuart Faculty Award for her outstanding contribution to the school was Cathleen McCurry. Caryl Ciabattoni received The Women's College Club of Princeton 1981 Award. Jane Mellow, who also helped to plan the graduation liturgy held earlier in the day at Stuart, received the Bishop George W. Ahr Medal for Religion.

Diplomas were awarded to Agnes Boisde (high honors), Frances Campo (high honors), Aida Capo (high honors), Maria Casale (National Merit Finalist), Amy Causing (high honors), Caryl Ciabattoni, Mary Ellen Claffey, Ann Marie Cottone, Christine Curran, Elizabeth Dabney (honors), Marjorie Fitton (highest honors), Annemarie Fleming (high honors), Katherine Freda, Colleen Gallo, Kathleen Grander, Nancy Kane, Lynn Lamelza, and Karen Ling (high honors).

Also receiving diplomas were Cathleen McCurry (high honors), Jane Mellow, Aileen Muller, Pierrette Newman, Jessica Quinby (honors), Mary Clare Reilly, Alma Snijders (honors), Evelyn Speciale, Jennifer Spicer, Elizabeth Thompson, Barbara Van Horn, Valerie Van Horn, Regina von Atzingen (AFS student from Brazil), and Sally Weatherill (highest honors).

The LANDAU Philosophy
(It's Really Quite Simple)
PART XL

The Problem: Product improvement!
Many stores are content to leave successful products alone. Why consider changes that require costly planning and added risks?

The Landau Solution: Product development and improvement is another of the specialized services we feel obligated to offer our customers.

Our 1980 shetland wool turtleneck sweater serves as a perfect example. Last fall we started offering colors of an imported shetland wool turtleneck at $32. The sweater was a terrific value, appropriate for every woman's wardrobe. (People who originally bought a single sweater came back to purchase others.) We sought additional colors and by Christmas 1980 we were offering the sweater in a myriad of basic colors.

Well, most stores would have been content...But we weren't. Delivery of the sweater was inconsistent and a $5 price rise ($37) was quoted for the 1981 season. We started looking for a better solution and after several weeks found it.

A top domestic sweater manufacturer offered us: 1) open production time, 2) enthusiasm for a basic new style, 3) access to 12 great colors in Machine Washable Shetland Wool, 4) superior quality to any sweater we had seen, and 5) a price ($35) that assured a terrific 1981 value.

The sweater is currently being produced to our specifications, for fall selling. The quality has been substantially improved, the price modestly increased.

You see, at Landau's we are as consumer oriented as our customers. That way we retain our customers.

It's that simple.

New Rent Law Questioned.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

The proposed Rent Registration Law which is up for consideration by the Borough Council contains some features which may prove very costly to the the Borough, landlords, and in time to tenants.

Chief of these features is the requirement that each rental unit is subject to inspection every time an increase in rent is requested — an unnecessary action since existing laws mandate inspection every three years anyway, and whenever a vacancy occurs. Putting this into effect would require either great increase in expense and personnel for these inspections, actual inspection of only a fraction of such units, which encourages non-compliance and lack of respect for the law, and-or neglect of other duties of the health department.

Proponents of the law seem unaware that the fallout of this regulation is increased costs to the landlords as well, which costs are eventually reflected in higher rents. For example, supposing an apartment whose rents have been kept relatively low by ignoring certain building regulations has three ceiling lights which are turned on by pull-chains.

The inspector will require these to be replaced by wall switches. Cost to the landlord — $500, which he doesn't want; cost to the tenant — an additional rent of at least $10 a month, which he doesn't want. The only ones who benefit are the electrician and the painter who repairs the walls which are damaged in the process.

The law is timed to go into effect when the rent law expires, to provide "continued protection to the tenant." The above example, which is but a small sample of what may occur from an inspection of a perfectly safe house, shows the possible cost of such "protection." The proponents seem to think that this law will discourage landlords from asking for any rent increase, no matter how modest. This is completely unrealistic.

If they are really afraid that as soon as the rent leveling law expires, landlords will raise rents abruptly, they can provide protection much more effectively and inexpensively by requiring inspections only in cases where the proposed rent increase is larger than the CPI increase.

Rather than face the expense and hassle of inspection, the landlords would have a real incentive to keep rent increases moderate, and the health department could concentrate its resources where they are really needed. The requirement of registering rent increases could be kept, as well as some mechanism for mediating landlord-tenant disputes, but inspections should be left where they belong, not in conjunction with rent increases

Citgo Supported.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

Following is a letter I have written to Harold Goldberg, manager of the Princeton Shopping Center.

Losing the Citgo Service Station in the Shopping Center would be a great disservice to those of us who have learned to depend upon their cheeful and efficient service.

When snow tires need to be changed, when dangerous little red lights go on, when tires seem a little flat, when the lawn mower runs out of gas we have become accustomed to hopping right over to the Shopping Center for help. There are many of us who regularly leave our cars there for service while doing our errands.

Some time ago I decided that if I can't find the things I need right here in Princeton, I probably don't really need them. I am slowly realizing that the powers that be are gradually making that impossible by replacing stores that fill real needs with an amazing number of banks and boutiques.

I urge you to reconsider a very serious move which reflects this trend. We need the Citgo Station to keep the Shopping Center a well balanced dispenser of goods and services that meet the needs of those who live nearby.

A Happy Ending.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

Once upon a time there was a community of thousands of fabulous people who made the 28th Fete a legend by creating a day of fabled fun. We are exceedingly grateful to everyone who worked so hard and to the thousands who came and supported the Fabled Fete.

May you live happdy ever after knowing that the Medical Center at Princeton benefits because of you.

The coverage given to the Fabled Fete by TOWN TOPICS has been outstanding. Thank you very much.

FORMER "COTTAGE" INDUSTRY EXPANDS: Founded in 1973 in a little cottage near the Railroad tracks at Princeton Junction, the growth of Gillespie Advertising is reflected in its current building (right) at 791 Alexander Road. The structure was formerly the offices of its designers and builders, the Hillier Group. The Gillespie firm, has grown from a small two man direct mail marketing specialty group to a full service advertising agency with marketing responsibilities for clients throughout the nation. Its current billing is $7 million. Last year Gillespie added an extensive public relations capability with the establishment of its public affairs division.

YEDLIN HAS PLANS

For Office Building. Princeton builder Benedict Yedlin has presented preliminary plans to the Montgomery Township Planning Board and the Economic Development Commission for a two-story office building on Orchard Road.

The structure is planned for a 23.4-acre site, near Applied Data Research Corp., near Route 206 North, and bounded by Bedens Brook on the south.

Plans call for a phased development of the office structure which, when completed, will consist of wings connected by a skylit court connecting the main entrances.

Mr. Yedlin proposed constructing the first two-story wing, totaling 34,000 square feet, and its entrance drive and parking lot during the initial phase of construction. During the subsequent phase of development, the second section and an adjacent parking lot will be built.

Architect for the project is Laurel Lovrek of East Windsor, who is designing a contemporary executive office building which is shaped in the form of tightly compressed crosses. The building will be constructed of white architectural concrete panels, and solar-tempered insulated strip windows.

Seven-foot high dropped windows will highlight exccutive offices. Energy efficient features include southern overhangs that block sun from the windows in the summer but permit solar gain in winter; double door entry vestibules which reduce thermal transfer; recycling building heat from occupants, office equipment and lights; and wind-break plantings.

Many of the amenities will depend on the needs of future tenants, the developer points out. Yedlin is negotiating leases with prospective tenants.

Mr. Yedlin has just completed the Herrontown 1000 office building off Route 206 and has currently under construction a townhouse development in Princeton.

JOB TRAINING PLANNED

By Energy Warehouse. The Energy Warehouse of Lawrenceville and United Progress, Inc. of Trenton have signed a contract under which members of U.P.I.'s Senior Community Service Project will be trained by The Energy Warehouse in weatherization and energy conservation techniques. Three days of training begin Thursday.

The major objective of the program will be to improve employment opportunities for the older worker. The Senior Community Service Project, administered by United Progress, is funded by the Nation Council on the Aging, and has been in oepration in Mercer County since 1968. The Project has already found employment for participants in such areas as: teachers' aides, energy auditors, hot line counselors, mini-bus drivers, and clerical positions.

Richard Davis, president of The Energy Warehouse, said the program will be aimed at developing new job skills for the senior citizen through on-the-job and individualized training. "For the most part these are people who are re-entering the job market, bringing with them skills which need only updating to prepare them for a new career."

Upon completion of the program participants will be qualified for employment in the energy conservation field. Subject matter investigated will include: heat loss detection and prevention; measurement, installation and repair of windows, storms and doors; various insulation techniques; caulking and weatherstripping.

OBITUARIES

Richard J. Magee, director of research and development for the agricultural research division of the American Cyanamid Co. in Princeton, died June 8 in Sloan-Kettering Memorial Hospital in New York. He was 54 and lived at 51 Mason Drive.

Born in Hempstead, N.Y., Dr. Magee had lived in Princeton for 20 years. He had been associated with American Cyanamid since 1955 and had served in various chemical research activities involved with process development and with the discovery of new agricultual chemicals. In his position he was responsible for the development of new and analytical methodology.

Prior to joining American Cyanamid, Dr. Magee had been an assistant professor at St. John's University in New York. He had also been a guest chemist with Brookhaven National Laboratories.

He received his bachelor's degree in chemistry from St. John's University in 1948 and both his master's degree and his doctorate from Columbia University in 1950 and 1954 respectively.

He held a number of patents on pesticidal compositions and was the author of many articles on enzymes and agricultural chemicals.

Dr. Magee was a member of the American Chemical Society and had been chairman of its agricultural and food chemical division.

He was also active in the Princeton Area United way, serving as its president in 1972. In 1976, Dr. Magee was the recipient of the Gerard B. Lambert Community Service Award for his civic contributions to the Princeton community. He was a Navy veteran of World War II.

Surviving are his wife, Ann G. Magee; a daughter, Ann E. Magee of New York; two sons, Richard J Magee of St. Louis and Steven G. Magee of Princeton; and a brother, Henry B. Magee of Mays Landing.

Mass of Christian Burial was celebrated at the Aquinas Institute, with burial in Princeton Cemetery. Arrangements were under the Kimble Funeral Home.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Aquinas Institute, 65 Stockton Street.

Barbara Armour Lowrie, 91, died June 14 at her home, 26 Edgehill Street.

Mrs. Lowrie was born in Chicago, Ill., the daughter of George Allison Armour and Harriet Foote Armour. When she was five, the family moved to 83 Stockton Street where she grew up with four brothers, Norman, William, Allison and Edmund.

In 1918, she was married to the Rev. Walter Lowrie, rector of St. Paul's Within-The-Walls American Episcopal Church, Rome, Italy. The couple lived in Rome until Dr. Lowrie's retirement in 1930 when they returned to Princeton and lived in Cedar Grove. Upon her father's death in 1938, they moved to Allison House, her father's property on Stockton Street.

In 1932-33 the Lowries lived in Peking and Japan while Dr. Lowrie lectured on the Danish theologian, Soren Kierkegaard. Dr. Lowrie died in 1959, and Mrs. Lowrie gave Allison House to Princeton University as a memorial to her husband. Today Walter Lowrie House is the official residence of the president of Princeton University.

Survivors include her brother, the Hon. Norman Armour of New York City, a former U.S. ambassador and career Foreign Service officer; three grandnieces, Mrs. Tania Armour Midney of New York City, Mrs. Allison Terry of London, Mrs. Courtney Regan of New York City; and a grandnephew, Norman Armour III of Hong Kong.

The service will be held Thursday at 2 at Trinity Church, 33 Mercer Street, the Rev. John Crocker, rector, officiating, with the Rev. Samuel Ishibashi of Trinity Episcopal Church, Rocky Hill. Burial will be in Princeton Cemetery.

In lieu of flowers, contributions may be made to the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad.

Mrs. Edna Mae Anderson, 86, of 189 Spruce Circle, died June 15 at the Merwick Unit of Princeton Medical Center.

Born in New Brunswick, Mrs. Anderson lived in Princeton for 55 years. She retired in 1960 after 15 years in the housekeeping department of Westminster Choir College.

Surviving are three sons, Robert J. of Kingston, William of Plainsboro, and Warren D. Anderson of Great Falls, Mont.; three grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

The service was scheduled to be held this Wednesday at 11 at the Mather Hodge Funeral Home, 40 Vandeventer Avenue, the Rev. David L. Crawford officiating. Burial followed in Princeton Cemtery.

Memorial contributions, if desired, may be made to the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad.

Mary E. Thompson, 73, a retired secretary, died June 10 at her home in Hamilton Township.

Mrs. Thompson was a lifelong resident of Princeton before moving to Hamilton Township five years ago. She was a secretary for 50 years with Frick Chemical Laboratory at Princeton University, retiring in 1976.

Wife of the late William R. Thompson, she is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Joan C. Judson of Hamilton Square; two sisters, Mrs. Elsie A. Skillman of New Haven, Conn., and Mrs. Dorothy E. Barwis of Melvin Village, N.H.; four grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Requiem Eucharist was celebrated at Grace-Saint Paul's Episcopal Church, Mercerville, the Rev. Edward R. Cook, rector, officiating. Burial was in Princeton Memorial Park, Robbinsville, under the direction of the Kimble Funeral Home. Memorial contributions may be made to The Book of Rememberance of Grace-Saint Paul's Church, 3715 East State Street Extension, Mercerville.

BOOK PUBLISHED

On Ecumenical Movement. A 20-year movement toward union by ten U.S. church bodies is reviewed in its immediate past, and examined in relation to the remainder of this century, in a book published by the Consultation on Church Union here.

Entitled "Oneness in Christ: The Quest and the Questions," the book examines the work of the Consultation during the 1970's, and then turns to some of the crucial questions to be faced between now and the year 2000 in the larger ecumenical movement. The author is the Rev. Dr. Gerald F. Moede of Skillman, general secretary of COCU.

The volume describes agreements being reached on the crucial questions of Christian unity as they relate to the Consultation, and contributions it is making toward the agreements. Included are such points as eucharistic sharing among the ten COCU churches, efforts directed toward elimination of sexism and institutional racism, and cooperative work at congregational levels.

A foreword to the book has been written by one of the era's most notable ecumenical figures, Bishop Leslie Newbiggin, formerly of the Church of South India, who now is teaching theology in Birmingham, England. The volume is available from the Consultation's headquarters at 228 Alexander Street, and through denominational channels.

TEN ATTEND MEETING

Of Christian Scientists. A number of Princeton residents, members of The First Church of Christ, Scientist, attended the 86th annual meeting of members of The Mother Church in Boston.

They include Mr. C. Earl Armstrong, Miss Lois E. Herr, Mr. Stanley C. Kephart, Mr. and Mrs. John M. Roe, Mrs. Erika Shirron, Mrs. Frances Wagenseil, Mrs. Paul Wesman and Miss Lilly Wey. Mr. Edwin Starner of Somerset, First Reader, was also among those who attended.

They heard the chairman of the Christian Science board of directors remark, in a keynote address, that the world's great need is for brotherhood based on "spiritual strength and Christly courage."

Churches of Christ, Scientist, in New Jersey are branches of the Boston-headquartered denomination. The annual meeting is a major international gathering of members for two days of reports and inspirational sessions.

BULLETIN NOTES

The guest preacher. Sunday at 10 at the Chancel Service in the University Chapel will be the Rev. Ronald E. Sleeth, professor of preaching, Iliff Theological Seminary, Denver, Colo.

A native of West Virginia and a minister of the Methodist Church, Dr. Sleeth is an alumnus of Yale University Divinity School and Northwestern University. He has taught at Vanderbilt and Perkins School of Theology and is the author of seven books in the field of preaching and rhetoric. His sermon topic will be "Tell the Story."

The Rev. John Young of the Central Unitarian Church in Paramus will lead a regular service Sunday at 10 in the Unitarian Church, Cherry Hill and State Roads. Entitled, "The Ethical Minority," his sermon will respond to the Moral Majority from the viewpoint of the liberal churches. Mr. Young received a doctor of ministry degree from Meadville and has served congregations in Chicago, New York City and Bloomington, Ind., before coming to Paramus in 1977.

All Saints' Episcopal Church, Van Dyke and All Saints' Roads, will begin its summer schedule of services this Sunday. There will be a service of Holy Eucharist at 7:30 and at 10 a.m.

There will be a discussion on "Spiritual Aspects of Addiction Recovery," led by Herrymon Maurer, Sunday at 10:05 in the library of the Princeton Monthly Meeting, Religious Society of Friends, Quaker Road.

Stewardess Board A of Mt. Pisgah A.M.E. Church will hold a Father's Day Roast Beef Dinner Sunday from 1-4 at the church, 170 Witherspoon Street. The donation is $7.

Bank Robbery

Police had first been alerted by a 2:39 call Monday afternoon from an excited bank employee reporting a holdup. Seven officers converged on the scene.

While Lt. Bellow and Detectives Fitch and Harris took over the investigation inside the bank, the rest searched the area for the suspect. The initial description--white male, 35 to 40, approximately 5-5, moustache, wearing a red plaid shirt and red baseball hat--was broadcast to surrounding police departments. Princeton police were later joined by two FBI agents from the Trenton office.

At the time, there were about 10 customers in the bank and four tellers. The suspect was armed with a handgun that Chief Carnevale later described as "large." No shots were fired. Witnesses allegedly detected the smell of liquor on his breath.

The suspect grabbed money from the cash drawers of all four tellers and stuffed it in a grey canvas bag. He fled on foot down Nassau Street toward Cox's, turned right and proceeded to the Park Place parking lot area.

Police searched the area without success. Just minutes prior to receiving the call from the bank, Ptl. Bernard Benhard had responded to an alarm at the Nassau Savings and Loan a few doors away at 188 Nassau. It was false.

Commenting on the near miss, Chief Carnevale said, "There could have been a shootout."

Palmer Square

remedies," Mr. Frank wrote. "Minor improvements at intersections immediately peripheral to Palmer Square are not enough to remedy what is now a bad situation and one that will get a great deal worse when the new Palmer Square is added. The remedy may not be Palmer Square's responsibility, but their additions bring this situation to a head."

Mr. Harvie defended the selection of the Voorhees firm for the traffic study. "The credibility of a traffic consultant is always a target," he said. "We selected Voorhees because they were the traffic engineers for the Venturi and Rouch study. We also consulted with the Planning Board and Borough Council and that's who they suggested.

"Even then we didn't just set the engineer loose on the streets. We sat down with the Mayor and with George Olexa (the Borough engineer) and asked them what they wanted us to cover. And even though it was not our responsibility we felt we had better cover the whole CBD."

'Tunnel' Reduced. With respect to the rest of Mr. Frank's recommendations, Mr. Harvie said that "Some comments we found noteworthy and we have tried to make reconsiderations in our plans. Others may have been the result of the EDRC not fully comprehending the plans or the ramifications."

The tunnel effect on Hulfish Street that has become an issue in the Collins plan "has not been eliminated completely," said Mr. Harvie, "but its length has been substantially modified. It's more of a bridge than a tunnel."

Collins appears to be much more pleased with the proposed CBD ordinance. The final plans for the proposed Spring Street garage, however, may not be what the development company has in mind. One of the issues to be discussed at Wednesday's meeting is whether to build a garage for 450 cars or one for 240.

Mr. Harvie, as well as many merchants, favors the larger garage. Even though the Borough's original parking study assumed that Palmer Square would provide around 700 spaces, and Collins's current plans envision 1,000 to 1,100, Mr. Harvie points out that any "Palmer Square success will spill over into the rest of Princeton. Things will happen and the parking will be needed."

Some members of Council, however, are believed to feel that the taxpayers simply cannot afford the burden of a larger garage. A final decision on the size of the garage may be reached at this week's meeting.

PEOPLE In The News

Bea Smith of 30 Race Street and her daughter, Alicia Suskin Ostriker of 33 Philip Drive, have each had a poem accepted for publication in the 1981 Middle Jersey Writers Anthology. Dr. Ostriker's contribution, "In The Dust," which won second prize, came from her book, "The Mother-Child Papers," published last year.

The copyright to Mrs. Smith's contribution, "The Sexagenarian," is owned by Robert Livingston, producer-director of the former Broadway hit and Tony nominee, "The Me Nobody Knows." Mr. Livingston has bought the rights to five of Mrs. Smith's poems for inclusion in his new venture, "This Is My Song."

Marylou Berry Roche has published a book entitled "Women in Transition-Relationships." Mrs. Roche, formerly employed by Firestone Real Estate and a former special teacher in the South Brunswick School system, now lives in Guilford, Conn. with her family.

The book deals with today's changing roles and relationships of men and women. The book is available at the Princeton University Store and Titles Unlimited.

Although possessing just 66 of the required 128 credits toward graduation at Rider College, John C. Nash of Princeton Junction has been accepted into the Ph.D. program in mathematics at Rutgers University. A sophomore and math major, he will enroll in the doctorate program at Rutgers in September and receive a $5,000 graduate fellowship.

Such a move is not uncommon, but it does require obtaining various recommendations and passing the Graduate Record Exam (in this case the advanced test in math) in addition to possessing strong academic qualifications.

Carrying a 4.0 grade point average, he was one of 47 students to be named an Andrew J. Rider Scholar last October.

Karen A. Krainski of Putnam Avenue, Lawrenceville, was presented with the Clarence DiDonato Scholarship Award at Mercer County Community College's 14th annual commencement ceremony.

The scholarship, in memory of the late Clarence Di Donato of Princeton, is derived from the interest on a $5000 donation from his wife, Lena, their children, relatives and friends of the family. Ms. Krainski was graduated with highest honors with an Associate in Applied Science degree in ornamental horticulture. She will attend the American Floral Arts School in Chicago.

Custom Homes By
William Bucci Builders, Inc.

Dogwood Hill is a unique residential enclave on the west side of Mount Lucas Road in Princeton Township.

The site is naturally rolling and covered with native dogwoods and large shade trees.

Eleven custom homes will be built on lots of at least three quarters of an acre, in a cluster plan with seven acres of common open space.

William Bucci Builders, Inc., are local builders with a fine record of building quality custom homes in the Princeton area. They will build from their plans or yours. All lots are fully developed with public water, sewer and underground utilities of electric and gas.

To Eben's Friends:

Thank you...for the cards, toys and visits. For giving money, blood and prayers.

Eben's illness at the Princeton Medical Center and at Children's Hospital of Philadelphia lasted six weeks.

The significance of your effort during that time is even now hard to grasp. Every day we learn of a new kindness done. We can't begin to thank each of you individually. But we are proud, as you should be, of what you did, and we share your gratitude that Eben is home.

Neighborhood Associations Still Throw Parties But Now Also Attend to More Serious Concerns

For people who still like to think of Princeton as a series of neighborhoods — Tree Streets, Jugtown, Witherspoon-John, Mercer Hill, etc. — rather than a bureaucratic entity defined by Borough and Township lines, the news of recent weeks must be heartening: Not one but two neighborhood civic associations flexed their political muscles in the face of proposed development by private and public interests.

The Witherspoon Jackson Development Corporation, named after one street that long ago was wiped out to make room for Palmer Square expansion, is formulating plans to prevent any more of its streets and its small but affordable housing from meeting the same fate. The Stony Brook Area Civic Association, meanwhile, representing homeowners in the Mercer-Gallup road area, made front-page news by their opposition to the proposed construction of the Mercer Christian Academy in their neighborhood.

The neighborhoods represented by the two groups could not be more diverse. But in the minds of some people studying the urban and suburban scene, the common denominator between the two groups could become a major force in municipal affairs. "People want to shape their own destinies, rather than have them shaped by outside entities," says Terry Magady, who just received his master's degree at Princeton's Woodrow Wilson School and who helped found the consulting firm that did the research for the Witherspoon Jackson group.

With municipal governments facing tighter budgets and anticipating less assistance from the Federal government of Ronald Reagan, Mr. Magady predicts that "community groups are going to have to be creative and resourceful on their own to help themselves, rather than look to the city government."

In Princeton in recent years, neighborhood groups have sprouted not only to fight or at least control outside development, but also to help establish Quarry Park and to plant trees there. Other groups have formed to mobilize citizens in the fight against crime. They now exist in the Tree Street area, Rollingmead, and in several other neighborhoods.

Social Occasions. Other groups lie dormant, but retain their organizational structure just in case an issue arises that requires neighborhood action. "It's no great powerhouse," says Paul S. Smith, of 181 Laurel Circle, referring to the Hillcrest Civic Association.. "We exist on paper." But when public housing was proposed on Ewing Street the Hillcrest Civic Association was revived. (Mr. Smith, incidentally, has no idea how the group came to be called Hillcrest, but he believes that it has existed since shortly after World War II.)

Some groups have no apparent formal organization, but still come together once a year or more for social occasions. Last year residents of Pine Street held their third annual street party and residents of Hawthorne Avenue closed their street for a day. The Jugtown Block Party was held on Pelham Street, between Markham Road and Wilton Street. This weekend residents of Moran Avenue will hold their first block party, and the Quarry Park Association will set off fireworks in the park this Saturday evening.

Even the social gatherings can have a hidden agenda. One block group plans to use its annual party as the occasion to encourage an absentee landlord to make repairs on his rundown property.

"We tend to be an orphan — forgotten until election time," says Gabrielle Shelley, a past president of the Stony Brook association. "Since we're somewhat isolated, we get the short end of the stick. They never even considered routing the outer loop bus out here, and we need transportation. But you have somewhat more clout as a group."

Picnics and Caroling. The Stony Brook residents have lobbied successfully for restoration of the two-lane bridge on Mercer Road and unsuccessfully for a reduction in the speed limit on that roadway. When one resident died of a heart attack at the age of 43, the association attempted to organize CPR training for all residents. The plan fell through because a volunteer trainer could not be recruited.

In addition to all this activity, the Stony Brook residents still engage in the usual block association activities: residents welcome new neighbors personally (Governor Byrne and his family will be moving in shortly); they organize Christmas caroling; and they have an annual Fourth of July picnic. "It can be held anytime between the Fourth of July and Labor Day," explains Mrs. Shelley.

Shortly after Martin Lombardo's house was broken into, a Linden Lane neighbor was robbed at gunpoint in his home. Mr. Lombardo, a former Borough Council member, called a meeting of Tree Street residents to discuss security. The result was distribution of a survey to measure the crime problem and a campaign to encourage residents to be more aware of suspicious activity.

"Basically we believe that neighborhood problems can be resolved by neighborhood people," says Mr. Lombardo. "Police can't do it all. We have considered the idea of a neighborhood patrol but the big thing is to encourage people to get to know their neighbors on each side of them — like the old Princeton I knew when everyone knew their neighbors."

Residents of Rollingmead required no meetings and no organization to start their neighborhood watch effort. They put up notices on their doors advising potential thieves that the homes were being watched. One week after the notices were posted a resident reported a suspicious man to police, who discovered a burglary and made the arrest.

Witherspoon Jackson Corporation To Discuss Report Next Wednesday

The Witherspoon Jackson Development Corporation, the citizens' coalition which commissioned a major study of land holdings and development potential in the predominantly black section of Princeton north of Palmer Square, will meet Wednesday, June 24, to exchange views and reactions to the consultants' recommendations, reported by TOWN TOPICS in its June 10 issue.

Those recommendations were submitted formally last week in the form of a 215-page report and an oral presentation by the Neighborhood Development Associates, a consulting firm founded by two graduate students at Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School.

"It was one of our best presentations ever and it was very well received," said an enthusiastic Alan Fink, one of the consultants. "The report seemed to open people's eyes to new directions. Whether or not they choose to follow all the recommendations, they at least will be considering a wide range of possibilities."

Joan Hill, head of Princeton's Civil Rights Commission and president of the Witherspoon Jackson group, spoke with the reserve of one who has been through the trials of community planning and action. "We want everyone to have a chance to study the report, and then we'll get their comments," she said. That process begins next week.

News Of The THEATRES

'TAXI DRIVER' OPENS

At Summer Cinema. Martin Scorcese's "Taxi Driver" will headline the opening program of McCarter Theatre's fifth annual Summer Cinema series at Kresge Auditorium on the Princeton campus, with five screenings beginning Wednesday through Sunday. The season's first double-feature presentation will be completed by "Who'll Stop the Rain," to be shown each evening at 7:30, with "Taxi Driver" scheduled for 9:45.

Discount coupon books for the entire eleven-week Summer Cinema '81 series (11 admission coupons for $25) are still available from McCarter Theatre, and will be on sale at the door of Kresge Auditorium. Single admissions to the first week's double feature will also be available from 7 p.m.

In "Taxi Driver," Robert DeNiro won the 1976 Oscar for his portrayal of Travis Bickle, an embittered Vietnam veteran who drives a New York cab by night while turning into an urban guerrilla by day. Bickle moves alone among the New York crowds jostled, crushed, ignored, abused, hassled, until his trigger for violence takes over. As written by Paul Schrader, DeNiro's Bickle emerges as one of the most chilling, repellent characters in modern film, and "Taxi Driver" — rated "R" with good reason — builds to a final and terrifying scene of violence and slaughter that is not recommended for the squeamish.

The supporting cast includes Cybill Shepherd as a well bred, young, political campaign worker who meets and briefly dates Bickle, and the then 12 year-old Jodie Foster, who achieved notoriety for her portrayal of Iris, a prostitute who works for a black pimp ultimately killed by Bickle.

Karel Reisz's "Who'll Stop the Rain?" is based on Robert Stone's best selling novel "The Dog Soldiers," and is the saga of a disaffected Vietnam war correspondent (Michael Moriarty) who participates in a drug-smuggling scheme that imperils his life, as well as those of his wife (Tuesday Weld) and an old friend and Vietnam buddy (Nick Nolte), who agrees to act as his courier in bringing his drugs back to the States.

When the smuggling operation turns out to be a set-up, Nolte and Weld are forced to flee with several killers (and Government agents) in hot pursuit, culminating with a shattering climax filmed in the Mexican desert. The film served to establish Nolte as a major screen presence.

45 DANCERS CHOSEN

By Princeton Ballet. Ninety-five candidates from studios throughout New Jersey and nearby Pennsylvania competed in 1½-hour-long auditions for non-professional members of the Princeton Ballet Company. Of those competing 45, including 13 from Princeton, have been selected as members of the 18-year-old company.

Named to the senior company are Jennifer Benton, Princeton Junction; Laura Godfrey, Englishtown; Craig Holcomb, Princeton Junction; Dianna Holton, Milltown; Laura Keys, Princeton Junction; Jeffrey Rockland, Princeton; Weedie Sisson, Princeton; Courtney Smith, East Brunswick; Suzanne Troiano, Rumson; and Suzanne VanDusen, Freehold.

Those designated senior apprentices included Michele Emanuele, Edison; Gina Greco, Old Bridge; Kirsten Grover, Princeton; Cynthia Lancelot, Skillman; Rachel Leader, Princeton; Anita Pyka, Bayonne; Yaffa Weaver, Princeton; and Jo Wiseman, Elizabeth.

The junior company has gained the following new members: Elizabeth Brienza, Princeton Junction; Jenny

FUNNY THING HAPPENS

At Washington's Crossing. "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum" will be presented by the Neshaminy Players at Washington's Crossing Open Air Theatre, starting Thursday evening with shows Friday and Saturday and June 25, 26, and 27. Rain dates will be Sundays of both weekends. Performances begin at 8:30.

"Funny Thing" by Burt Shevelove and Larry Gelbart, with words and music by Stephen Sondheim, opened on Broadway in 1962 to rave reviews, with Zero Mostel and Jack Gilford in the leading roles of Pseudolus and Hysterium.

The story centers on Pseudolus (Craig Evans), a wily slave who will do anything to gain his freedom. Hero (Charlie Weiss), his master, has fallen in love with Philia (Marilyn Flanagan), a newly acquired virgin in the house of Lycus (Neil Schnitzer), a buyer and seller of beautiful flesh. Unfortunately for Hero, Philia has been sold to the noted general, Miles Gloriosus (Joe Royal), but Pseudolus strikes a bargain with his master to procure Philia in exchange for his freedom.

Conveniently, Senex (Robert Evans) and his wife Domina (Ann McDonald), Hero's parents, decide to go on a trip. This gives Pseudolus even more area to try to bring Philia and Hero together, and creates total chaos for Hysterium (Kurt Penney), the household's slave-in-chief. Their unexpected return leads to mistaken identities, double entendres, and a 10-minute chase scene through the streets of ancient Rome.

The show is under the musical direction of Theodore Kloos, with choreography by Melanie Noblet and dramatic direction by J. Jeffrey Adams.

AUDITIONS LISTED

By Street Theatre. Auditions for a three-act play to be produced by the Princeton Street Theatre will be held Monday and Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at Princeton Community Village. Auditions for a children's show will be held the following Monday and Tuesday, June 29 and 30, at 1:30 p.m.

The auditions will be in the troupe's headquarters in Basement of Princeton Community Village, the stairs of which are located beside 20 Juniper Row.

Princeton Street Theatre workshops for the summer also have been scheduled. An acting workshop will be held July 6 through 10; an improvisation workshop, July 13-17; and a dance workshop, July 20-24. Dance will be taught by Sharon Thompson, who is with the New Jersey Ballet, concentrating in jazz.

The theater games workshop, July 17-31, will be taught by Julie Denny, a professional actress who has acted in soap operas and commercials. A voice workshop, August 3-7, will be taught by Eileen Young, a voice teacher and member of the Princeton Opera Association. To register call 924-7452 or 921-8038.

SHAKESPEARE ...

Et. Al., in Madison. The New Jersey Shakespeare Festival in Madison has announced its 1981 summer-fall season. The program consists of two Shakespeares, Moliere, John Osborne, Hugh Leonard and Jack Heifner.

In addition, the Festival will offer Monday Night Specials of dance, drama, mime, music and various events for children.

The season will open June 23 with "Romeo and Juliet," which will play in repertoire through August 25.

"Cymbeline," a rarely-performed Shakespeare play, will be in repertories July 7 through September 6.

"Tartuffe," Moliere's farce about the sanctimonious swindler, has been blocked in for August 4 through September 20.

"The Entertainer," John Osborne's play about the embittered vaudevillian, will be played September 22 through October 18.

"Da," is the ghost of playwright John Leonard's maddening old father. Winner of "Best Play" from the New York Drama Critics Circle in 1978, it will play October 20 through November 15

SONG FESTIVAL PLANNED

By Choir College. The seventh international Art Song Festival will be held on the campus of Westminster Choir College from June 21 to June 26. Singers and pianists from all over the country will converge at the Choir College to participate in master classes and work with "master singers."

The Festival is being coordinated by Dalton Baldwin, an internationally recognized accompanist and vocal coach. Each of the evening concerts, which are open to the public, will be held in Bristol Chapel at 8. The afternoon concert begins at 1 in Bristol. Admission is $5, available at the door only.

The Festival will open on Sunday evening with a recital of French song by Gerard Souzay, a baritone described by one critic as "the greatest living interpreter of French art songs." Soprano Rosemarie Landry, an interpreter of Menotti and Mozart opera who also has an extensive art song repertory, will sing a recital of songs by German and French composers on Monday evening, June 22.

William Parker, a Princeton University graduate, will return to Princeton for a recital of French and English songs on Tuesday evening, June 23. Mr. Parker, a baritone, is particularly noted for his recordings of songs by Poulenc and Schubert in addition to works by American and English composers.

The program for Wednesday, June 24, will feature two recitals. At 1 in Bristol, soprano Yolanda Marcoulescou will sing both Italian songs and works by fellow-Romanian Georges Enesco. That same evening, Spanish and Russian songs will be performed by Marguerita Zimmermann, mezzo-soprano.

The final recital of the Festival will be performed on Thursday evening, June 25, by Elly Ameling, the internationally-known Dutch soprano. Miss Ameling has appeared in Princeton both at former Art Song Festivals and in McCarter Theatre music series. Most noted for performances of German lieder, her recital will consist of songs by Schubert.

ENSEMBLE TO PLAY

In Summer Chamber Series. The second in the series of Princeton University Summer Chamber Concerts will feature The Music Project on Tuesday, June 23, at 8:30 p.m., at the Main Court of the Graduate College (or at Alexander Hall in the case of inclement weather).

Five members of this ensemble will perform works by Mozart, Beethoven, Haydn, and Holst. The performers are Sheryl Henze, flute; Vicki Bodner, oboe; Setsuko Nagata, violin; Karen Dreyfus, viola; and Bonnie Hartman, cello.

The Music Project was founded five years ago by a group of six musicians, and evolved over a nine-month period into its present form as a mixed chamber-music ensemble of eleven. Their repertoire consists of 18th and 19th century classics, rarely heard works by well-known 20th century composers such as Poulenc and Janacek, and premieres of recent compositions.

The full ensemble breaks into groups of different sizes and instrumentation, as in next Tuesday's concert.

The concerts are free of charge so as to make outstanding chamber-music performances available to as wide an audience as possible. Princeton area businesses, institutions, and members of the community sponsor the series entirely by their donations. It is advisable to bring blankets on which to sit. Parking is available in the lot off Springdale Road just beyond the Graduate College.

The two remaining concerts will be given by An Ensemble of Baroque Trios (on July 7) and The Primavera String Quartet (on July 21).

ROSEMARIE LANDRY, soprano, is one of the singers who will participate in the Westminster Choir College's Seventh International Art Song Festival. She will give a recital of songs by German and French composers on Monday evening at 8 in Bristol Chapel.

SETTINGS FOR SUMMER

Offered by Ambleside. Inviting summer settings for lawn, porch, patio or poolside can be created with plantings, decorative accent pieces and attractive outdoor furniture found at Ambleside. Flowering trees and shrubs, evergreens, wildflowers, herbs and bedding plants include many unusual specimens; hanging baskets, water gardens, stone figures and wind chimes are delightful summer enchantments.

Carefree outdoor dining and seating groups contribute comfort and charm and complete these settings for pleasant outdoor living.

Outdoor Furnishings. Trojan's sets of aluminum outdoor furniture in a medium price range include seating with heavy vinyl straps, individually placed, or cushions of Textilene mesh and dacron-polyester fiberfill.

Vinyl straps are available in 18 colors, metal finishes in 16 colors, and cushions are earth tones, yellow, blue or green, in plaids, stripes or solids. Umbrellas of Textilene mesh, which provide shade while allowing circulation of air, are sold separately for $138.

Dining groups include a round 48" table with four matching chairs in a shade called driftwood; the chairs are strapped with driftwood vinyl edged in brown and the table top is fiberglas, $479.99 for the set.

Other dining groups are gold bamboo-styled aluminum and four chairs with gold cushions, $669.99, or a white aluminum mesh table with four matching chairs, $529.99. A seating group includes a three-cushion couch and two arm chairs, driftwood with wheat and white striped cushions, and a glass and aluminum coffee table, $499.99; a matching chaise is $239.99. Custom ordered finishes are slightly higher.

SUMMER SETTING: This dining group made by Trojan creates an inviting summer setting on the porch at Ambleside. The garden center also offers unusual plantings, hanging baskets and vegetables in pots for porch, patio and poolside, and many delightful accent pieces - water gardens, stone figures, wind chimes and decorative planters - for your summer enjoyment.

Decorative Accents. Cedar driftwood pieces from the Pine Barrens, in all sizes, can form the base for a coffee table or serve as decorative accents indoors or out, $4-$70. Planters include wicker window boxes in three sizes, $17.95-$24.95, custom-made cedar planters with an oriental medallion, standing or hanging bamboo planters, $64.99-$104.99, and terra cotta window boxes with embossed designs, $6-$60.

Ancient-looking cast cement friezes with medieval motifs, and garden figures — a Buddha, gargoyle, or animals — are $19.99-$69.99.

Garden Accessories. Shallow, kidney-shaped garden pools, black or green fiberglas, $92-$140, are attractive water gardens when planted with Pygmy lilies, water snowflakes, Egyptian lotus or shell flowers.

Garden lights include shaded low voltage garden lamps for illuminating walkways — four lights, transformer and 50 foot cable, $179.99, bamboo lanterns that hold votive candles, $5.95 or 2 for $10, and a black kerosene carriage lamp with hanging bracket and magnifying lenses, $19.95. Wind chimes of weathered bronze, $22.99-$65, have cool, tinkling sounds or the resonant tones of church bells.

Plants. Bedding plants include annuals for shade — wax begonias, impatiens, and torenia; and annuals for sun — petunias, balsam, calendulas, and verbena, and many others to provide continuous summer bloom.

Plants for hot, dry poolscapes are junipers, a creeping white seafoam rose, pink or blue mist spirea, Scotch broom and perennials such as Shasta daisies, purple salvia, Golden Showers coreopsis, and lady's mantle. A garden that requires no watering features ornamental grasses, smoke bush, hardy cactus, sedums, junipers, lavender, santolina, lambs ear and red hot poker.

Low-growing plants for rock gardens include dwarf evergreens such as bird's nest spruce, Rheingold arbor vitae, green dragon holly, Hinoki cypress, dwarf azaleas, yellow rhododendrons, Alpine spirea, heather and sedums. Wildflowers are lady slippers, wild geranium bluettes, cardinal flower, rue anemones and those that bloom earlier in the spring.

Ferns include Japanese painted fern, interrupted, ostrich, lady, hay-scented, Alaska and Japanese wood. Rare plants to contemplate while you sit outdoors are royal azaleas, oak-leaved hydrangea, leather leaf grape holly, paper bark maple and Senecio — "The Rocket" — a perennial with tall yellow spikes.

Hanging Baskets. Moss baskets planted with red leaf lettuce and parsley or purple cabbage have edible and ornamental contents; flower combinations include begonia and lobelia, or lantana and marigolds, approximately $15-$30.

Plastic baskets containing lantana, bougainvillea, geraniums, impatiens or browallia are $8.99. Vegetables in pots for patio gardens include patio tomatoes, bush cucumbers, and lettuce — green ice or red leaf.

Gardening Supplies. The skilled staff at Ambleside can offer you every assistance in selecting plants for your particular setting, and complete landscaping services, including patios, poolscapes, garden pools and rock gardens, are available.

Garden supplies for plant care include insecticides, fungicides, fertilizer and mulches. Bag-a-Bug traps for Japanese beetles and gypsy moths and Lure and Kill gypsy moth traps, are also stocked.

Ambleside is on Route 206 at Belle Mead. Hours are 10-6 Tuesday through Friday, 9-5 Saturday; Sunday hours are 1-5 through June. Phone 201-359-8388.

CONSERVATION FRAMING and paper restoration are the specialties of Joseph A. Sabin, framemaker. Oil paintings and works of art on paper can be aesthetically displayed and preserved for posterity, paper backing for art, discolored by age or stains, can be restored, and antique engravings, matted and ready to frame, can be purchased in his shop at Full House, Kingston.

It's New to Us

framing has made it both vocation and avocation for him. He studied the techniques of conservation framing and perfected his methods of paper restoration while working as a framer in other shops during the past seven years.

The framing techniques he developed enhance the aesthetic values of the art and at the same time preserve it for posterity, presenting the ultimate in service to his customers.

Conservation Framing. The acid in our atmosphere, so damaging to works of art on paper, can be balanced with alkaline mats and backboards and Joe has selected the Bainbridge Board Alphamats in soft shades or museum rag in basic tones of white, approved by the Library of Congress.

Oils on canvas are conserved by covering them with a backboard containing a fine screen port, which permits them to breathe yet keeps insects out. The large selection of wood frames includes natural or metallic finishes — such as gold leaf — from $1.75 to $38 per foot. The shop also carries Nielsen's entire line of aluminum frames in several anodized finishes and baked enamel in many colors.

Paper Restoration. Art work on paper backing discolored by age, liquid stains, or blemished by "foxing" (brown spots) can be restored to its original state and maintined through conservation framing.

Paper from which the discoloration has been removed often reveals new colors and dimensions — backgrounds come to light, clouds appear in the sky, colors take on new depths. Paper that has crumbled from age can be pulled back together and the fibers interlocked if all the pieces have been salvaged.

Attractive Mats. Mats with artistic effects can dramatize a small picture and give it added importance. Pleasing designs have been created by inlaying strips of one or more colors or hand-carving graceful lines; an open design in an Art Nouveau style displays intricate cut-outs.

Metal leaf glass mats — black glass with a border of gold metal leaf or a lacey silver metal leaf border applied by hand — are also examples of the imaginative and meticulous work at this shop.

Joseph A. Sabin, Jr., Framemaker, can be found at Full House, 32 Main Street, Kingston, where there is ample off-street parking. Shop hours are 10-5 Tuesday through Saturday; Mondays by appointment. Phone 924-2904.

IMMEDIATE APPRAISAL of your jewelry and silver can be made at Scott and Porado, Inc., or an appointment can be made for a more extensive appraisal in the convenience of your home. Philip Porado (left) and Hubert Scott, professional appraisers, can offer a formal signed document presenting a description of each item and its current replacement value for insurance and estate purposes.

SCOTT AND PORADO

Professional Appraisers. Hubert Scott and Philip Porado, partners at Scott and Porado, Inc., are experienced professional appraisers offering formal documentation of your jewelry and silver for insurance or estate purposes. An immediate evaluation of your portable articles can be provided at their office, or an appointment made for a more extensive inventory in the convenience of your home.

Fees are moderate; the firm charges a small minimum fee for items appraised at the office, or an hourly rate for a large number of articles. A flat fee is required for the first two hours of a house call, plus an hourly rate for longer periods.

The escalating value and easy portability of jewelry and silverware have made them extremely vulnerable to theft and increased the need for more complete insurance coverage.

According to Scott and Porado, "the average homeowner insurance policy presently offers coverage of $1,000 for silverware and $500 for jewelry, unless specifically listed and covered under a separate floater." Since most insurance companies require inventories listing current replacement prices for expanded coverage, an up-to-date appraisal may be necessary.

In addition, a formal appraisal will help you validate lost or stolen items — not covered by insurance — for a deduction from your income tax. Scott and Porado also make appaisals for banks and attorneys to aid in the settlement of estates.

The criteria for evaluating silver is its weight, design and craftsmanship; jewelry is judged by the quality and rarity of its gemstones, the value of its precious metals and the design and craftsmanship of the finished piece.

Hubert Scott and Philip Porado are highly qualifed to render these important appraisal services. Mr. Porado has had 26 years experience in the management of jewelry stores — 13 years in Connecticut and 13 years in Princeton as manager of LaVake. Hubert Scott, a registered jeweler of the American Gem Society, had a store of his own — "Scott's Jewelers," in Plainfield, N.J. — for 32 years and joined LaVake in 1978.

You will receive gracious, courteous service at Scott and Porado, Inc. The firm is located in the penthouse at 22 Chambers Street. Office hours are 9:30-5 Monday through Friday. Phone 609-683-0160.

LOTTERY SATURDAY

For Art Association. There is still time to participate in "An Evening with Art and Artists," the Princeton Art Association's art lottery to be held on Saturday at the American Boychoir School.

More than 60 prominent New Jersey and New York artists have contributed critically acclaimed works to be presented to holders of the winning tickets. The preview starts at 5:30, and the lottery begins at 7. There will be music by the Partita Players and complimentary hors d'oeuvres. Attendance is limited. Call the PAA studios at 921-9173 for more information and reservations.

PAINT THE FALLS

Outdoor Workshop Set. An outdoor workshop with Fred Scudder will be held at Cuttalossa Inn, Pa. Sponsored by the Princeton Art Association, the workshop is scheduled for Tuesday, June 30, from 9 to 3.

Artists may work in their preferred medium, oils, acrylics, watercolors, or any of the drawing media, and benefit from the special guidance and experience of Mr. Scudder. Presently an adjunct professor at Trenton State College, he has taught at Emory University, Wesleyan College, and the International University of Lugano. His work is represented in many museums and collections, including the permanent collection of Johnson and Johnson.

The Cuttalossa Inn, located in Lumberville, Pa., with its waterfalls, gardens, and plantings, offers almost unlimited variety to artists for painting in the outdoors. On the site is the original grist mill, built in 1752 by Samuel Armitage. A second mill, built prior to 1758, was destroyed to make way for the canal, and was rebuilt in 1833. The walls of this building, and its race and dam are part of the Cuttalossa Inn garden.

For more information or to reserve a place, call the PAA at 921-9173.

MURAL UNVEILING

At John Witherspoon. A mural designed by Princeton architect Michael Graves and executed by him and a group of his graduate students at the University will be unveiled Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the John Witherspoon Middle School on Walnut Lane, near the Choir College.

The mural covers a two-story high wall in what is known as the commons of the school, between the cafeteria and the library, and encompassing the entrances to the gymnasium and auditorium.

The unveiling, sponsored by the Arts Council and the school's parent-teacher organization, will actually be a showering of light onto the work, accompanied by a fanfare of trumpets. Refreshments will be served.

ARTISTS INVITED

To Show in Blairstown. The Blair Woman's Club will sponsor its 19th annual outdoor Art Show on Saturday, July 4, in Blairstown. Area artists wishing to participate are invited to telephone Mrs. Charles O'Connell, chairman, Mrs. Martin J. Bachtaler and Mrs. Ralph Kitchen, co-chairmen, all of Blairstown. The entrance fee is $7.

The proceeds from the event will benefit the Frances M. Breed Scholarship Fund of the Blair Women's Club, from which scholarships are awarded each year to college-bound students of the North Warren Regional High School. Works of art will be displayed on the porches of the historic buildings of Main Street and at the waterfall.

The outdoor art show coincides with a celebration sponsored by Blairstown Township.

ART, IN SUMMER

Children's Classes. Art classes will be given this summer for children ages six through 12 by Edith Kogan at her Washington Well Art Center.

Classes will be held in July and August on Mondays and Fridays. Both morning and afternoon sessions have been scheduled. The Center is on the grounds of Washington Well Farm, three and one-half miles from Princeton on Route 518.

A variety of media will be used in the children's classes, and groups will be limited to six. Ms. Kogan, who is director of children's programs at the Princeton Public Library, has taught in the Princeton public schools, Stuart Country Day School, Trenton's Title I program and the Princeton Art Association.

Additional information may be obtained by calling 466-2105.

CRAFTSMEN SOUGHT

For Kingston Event. A Crafts Show entitled "Kingston Festival" will be held Saturday, July 11, on Main Street, Kingston. The rain date is the next day.

The Kingston Business Association is sponsoring the event and is looking for craftsmen interested in participating. The Association seeks potters, portrait artists, kite-makers, traveling musicians, mimes, water colorists, silk screen artists and stained glass makers — artisans who would like to display their craft but also would be interested in demonstrating their craft.

Pre-registration is $10. For further information, write or call Jerrie Lodato, chairman, care of the Country Petaler, 43 Main Street, Kingston, 08528, 921-1030.

CURRENT EXHIBITS

"Sculpture Installations," an exhibit featuring the works of Kevin Finch, Joanne Vena and Rebecca Johnson, will begin with an opening reception Friday from 7 to 9 in Mercer County Community College's Library Gallery on the West Windsor Campus.

The exhibit will run through September and is free and open to the public.

Princeton Hockey May Suffer from ECAC Scheduling Changes

The 17 Eastern College Athletic Conference Division I hockey members have announced a proposal for a new schedule and post-season selection procedures. If the reaction of Princeton University coach Jim Higgins is any indication, followers of Ivy League hockey can be expected to be dismayed by the changes.

Under the proposed schedule, which would go into effect for the 1982-'83 season and which will be considered for approval at the ECAC executive council meeting in August, Princeton and the five other hockey-playing schools in the Ivy League would play each other three times in a season, creating a 15-game league schedule.

The winner of the Ivy League would automatically earn home ice in the ECAC championship tournament and be seeded fourth. The rub for the Ivies is that the remaining five berths in the tournament would automatically come from the ranks of the 11 scholarship schools in the ECAC, who would compete in two separate divisions.

"I think we were sold down the river on this one," said Higgins. "It hasn't worked out the way a lot of people in the Ivy League thought it would."

Under the proposed new schedule, Princeton's games against the scholarship schools in the ECAC (Boston College, Boston University, Northeastern, Providence, Clarkson, Colgate, and RPI, and four others) would drop from eleven a year to only six. "Since we're the southernmost school," said Higgins, "a lot of teams, like BU, may decide it's going to cost them money to play us." Under the current set-up, all teams in the ECAC play all others at least once; under the proposed schedule they would not.

Recruiting Problems. "It could really hurt us in recruiting," said Higgins. "The other schools will say that they have a more prestigious league" than the division in which the Ivy schools would play.

The proposed new schedule came out of meetings with the ECAC athletic directors, not the coaches. Princeton would still play five games with non-ECAC schools, for a total of 26 games a year.

One brighter note, from the point of view of Higgins, was that workmen have begun installing new ice-making machinery in Baker Rink. It is expected to be operational by October 1. Renovation of the locker rooms is scheduled to begin this summer and be completed by January.

SPORTS In Princeton

OFF TO FAST START

Princeton Post 4-0. After the second weekend in the Mercer County American Legion League, Princeton Post 76 was the lone undefeated team, with a 4-0 record.

Princeton crushed Hopewell Post 339, 17-3, Saturday, and two days earlier scored 17 runs again in routing the Broad Street Park Browns, 17-3. It began the week with a 4-1 victory over Lawrence Post 414.

Princeton coach Pete Millington was quick to put the fast start in perspective. The lopsided wins over Hopewell and the Browns were really not good tests, he said. "They're not the better teams in the league. We had a field day hitting and in getting a lot of gift runs."

By the end of this week, there will be a more definitive answer on just how good the Princeton team is. By Sunday, when it plays defending league champion Hamilton Post 31 in Hamilton, Post 76 will have played six games in seven days.

"It's going to be a bit of a strain on our pitching," commented Millington. "I hope we can get some strong performances."

Wednesday, Princeton will be at Mitchell-Davis Post 182, at Trenton Post 93 on Friday, at Hightstown Post 148 on Saturday and at Hamilton on Sunday.

Majarwitz Wins Second. Tom Scibetta, Brent Robinson, Keith Ender and Keith Phox each banged out two hits in Saturday's easy win over winless (0-5) Hopewell. Scibetta and Phox also batted in three runs each as Princeton put the game out of reach with nine runs in the seventh inning. John Majarwitz (2-0) picked up the easy win.

Brent Robinson went 5-for-5 to lead a 15-hit attack against the Browns, driving in three runs. The game was called after six innings, as Princeton scored in every frame but the first.

Rightfielder Dan Arendas drove in four runs with a triple and single, while Ron Kane and Dan Miller each added two hits and combined to drive in five runs. Andy Kulinski, who limited the Browns to five hits, got the win.

The 4-1 win over Lawrence was largely a Judd Petrone show.

Petrone "pitched six good innings," said Millington, in yielding only four hits before getting relief from Arendas in the seventh. Arendas served up a double play ball with two on and no outs to defuse a potential Lawrence uprising.

Petrone's solo homer, his second of the season, had given Princeton an early 1-0 lead. The winning run came in the fourth when Phox singled home Ender, who had led off the frame with a walk.

POST 76 EARNS "A"

In First Baseball Test. Is the Princeton Post 76 American Legion team for real? Ask Bordentown Post 26.

Despite winning its first four games, Post 76 had not faced a strong team until Monday, when it opposed Bordentown, one of the pre-season favorites to win the Legion championship.

Princeton passed its first test impressively, as West Windsor star Dan Arendas limited Bordentown to one hit--a single just out of reach of second baseman Scott Porreca's glove in the first by Mo Simonka--in posting a 5-3 decision. Bordentown (4-2) scored all three of its runs on sacrifice flies.

As it was, Princeton had to wait until the ninth to claim its fifth victory. Trailing 3-2, Ron Kane singled to open the inning and moved to second on Dan Miller's perfect bunt. After two outs, Tom Scibetta kept Post 76 alive with a single that tied the score at 3.

Brent Robinson's curving double down the right field line sent Scibetta home with the winning run. Princeton added another when the relay from first baseman Dave Revay sailed into the stands.

It marked the first time that the 16-year old Arendas had gone nine innings. "I mixed it up pretty well. Dan Miller called the whole game for me," said Arendas. "You can't sit back on one pitch."

Robinson continues his torrid hitting for Princeton. His two doubles in three at bats gives him 11 hits in 16 appearances. Keith Ender had three hits and Scibetta two as the three combined for seven of Princeton's 10 hits.

NHL Drafts Tiger Skater

Ed Lee, a right wing on the Princeton hockey team who just completed his sophomore year, was drafted by the Quebec Nordiques in the fifth round of the recent National Hockey League player draft. Lee joins Tiger goalie Ron Dennis as a player the professionals are watching: Dennis was drafted last year by the Toronto Maple Leafs.

"We've been getting a lot more professional scouts at our games," noted Coach Jim Higgins, "even at Baker Rink." The coach expects both players to conclude their Princeton careers before trying hockey's professional ranks.

The last Princetonian in the NHL was Syl Apps, who skated briefly for the Orange and Black before jumping to the pros. He recently retired the Princeton Youth Baseball Association League.

The Elks defeated Engine Co. 1, 3-1, as Thad Reynolds doubled home two runs and Marty Longman, James Womak and Doug Davis contributed hits. The loser's lone run was an Andy McManus homer.

The Elks also defeated Roma Eterna, 14-6, Reynolds again had a good performance at the plate, connecting for a home run, double and single and driving home three runs. Davis, Michael Dolatta and Brett Hoebel each drove in a run. Mark Nathan, Andy Hurford and Terrance Thomas had hits for the losers.

Jonathan Kahn's double and triple paced Post 76 to a 16-7 triumph over the Eagles. He received offensive support from Kirk Williams and Chris Dumont, who also doubled, and from David Gross. Carl Hoyler and James Daley belted triples for the losers. Davis Smith, Justin Harding and Robbie Cifelli also contributed to the Eagles' attack.

Post 76's second win was more contested, a 4-3 shading of Engine No. 3. Noah Falk, Kirk Williams, Craig McNair, Kahn and Dumont had hits for the victors, while Darius Young and John Stefanchik hit for Engine No. 3.

Earlier, Engine No. 3 had routed Century 21, 20-7. John Thompson, who tripled, drove in three runs, Young knocked in a pair and Billy Kirdy, Chan Kinchla and Stefanchik each had one RBI. Michael Humphreys, Barry Phox and Fionia Little each drove in a run for the losers.

Italian-American scored nine runs in the last inning to defeat Roma Eterna, 12-9. Jerry Dismukes had two hits and Tom Cifelli, Kevin Connel and Mike Hunninghake one each for the I-A team. Bruce Ellis, Dylan DeThomas and Mark Nathan had hits for Roma.

In other games, the Eagles lost again, bowing 13-3 to Century 21, as John Clark and Ian McCray hit homers for the victors (Davis Smith doubled for the Eagles's only hit) and Engine No. 1 defeated Italian-American, 6-4

Jeff Robinson cracked a pair of triples and Billy Byrne doubled for the victors, while Tom Cifelli and Danny Shidlovsky each rapped doubles for I-A.

NEW RECORD SET

In Junior Olympics. John Burnett turned in an outstanding performance at the A.A.U. State Junior Olympics held Saturday at Hopatcong High School. Participants from all over the state competed

Burnett bettered the state record for the Bantam division in the 50-meter dash with a time of 7.72. He also captured a gold medal in the 100-meter dash with a time of 14.72.

Janet Cieslin won the mile run for her age group with a clocking of 5:40.

Mike Reddick finished second in the 50-meter dash in the Midget division.

Round Robins Planned

The Princeton Recreation Department plans to establish round robins or team tennis for the summer — if enough show interest.

Approximate playing dates would be the end of June through August 7 with matches scheduled for Wednesdays and Fridays from 10:30 to noon at the Community Park Courts. All registrants must be permit holders.

Those interested must file an application for entrance to the league. They may be obtained at the Community Park courts or at the Recreation Office in the Township Hall Annex. Deadline for registering is Friday.

The relay team of Patrick McKellar, John Thompson, Scott Fletcher and Mike Reddick was third in the Midget division. Patrick also finished fourth in the 100-meter dash.

Other individuals participating for the Princeton Recreation Department and receiving certificates were Paul Crystal, running long jump; Brian Williams, Shawn Miller, and Anthony White, 440 yard relay; Andrew Jacobs, 6 lb. shot put, and Renee McGowen, 100 meter dash.

LACROSSE LEAGUE SET

For Women. The Princeton Recreation Department will sponsor a women's lacrosse program this summer.

There will be an organizational meeting of all players next Thursday, June 25, at 6 at the Princeton High School field. Players must be eighth grade graduates or older. Registration forms can be obtained at the Princeton Recreation Department.

There is a league fee of $10 for residents, $20 for eligible non-residents, who must work full time in Princeton or attend school in Princeton.

Games will be held Tuesday and Thursday evenings, and players will furnish their own equipment. The program will run approximately eight weeks.

Joyce Jones will be acting director, assisted by Barbara Waterman. For more information, call Denise King of the recreation office at 921-9480.

KOFFEE KUP WINS

In Women's Softball. In games last week in the Princeton Women's Softball League, Koffee Kup and Mike's Tavern both won to post identical 6-0 records, while Conte's Bar, the defending league champions, lost its first two games of the season.

Koffee Kup used four triples to outslug Conte's 11-9, scoring four in the first and three in the third. Lisa Yates had four hits in four appearances, including a pair of triples for Kup, while teammates Joanne Rice and Spring Taylor also tripled. Peggy Wood belted a three-run homer in a five-run fourth inning for Conte's.

Later in a double-header on Sunday, Mike Tavern's Lorraine Duthie handcuffed Conte's with three hits as Mikes rolled to a 7-1 victory.

Clare Baxter and Debbie Ficcaro each had two hits in three at bats for Mike's, Baxter scoring three runs and Ficcaro including a double in her two hits. Mike's big inning was the first when it scored four runs

---

Andy's Tavern toppled Ivy Inn, 9-1, as Joan Barton got the win. Dee Vertucci had the big bat for the victors, batting in five runs with a homer, triple and single and scoring three. Tracey Armiger collected a triple, double and single, and Barbara Griggs also had three hits for Andy's.

In another game, Annex Restaurant scored four runs in the sixth to defeat Ivy, 6-2 Ree Smurthwaite got the win and was aided by Carol Novotny's two-run homer.

Other scores last week: Mike's Tavern 10, Princeton Indoor Tennis Center, 0; Annex 22, Alchemist & Barrister, 1; PITC 24, A&B, 0 and Koffee Kup over Rusty Scupper by forfeit.

In games this Wednesday at 6 at Community Park, Ivy vs. Conte's; A&B vs. Rusty Scupper; Mike's Tavern vs. Koffee Kup, and Andy's Tavern vs. PITC.

The standings:

	W	L	Pct
Koffee Kup	6	0	1.000
Mike's	6	0	1.000
Conte's	4	2	.667
Annex	4	3	.571
Andy's	3	3	.500
Ivy Inn	3	3	.500

PHS ATHLETES HONORED

Robinson is MVP. At a sports award dinner held last week for members of the Princeton High School baseball team, their families and friends, senior shortstop Brent Robinson was presented the Most Valuable Player award.

The three-year veteran led the team in hitting with a .421 average, drove in 24 runs and had an impressive .587 on base average. "He was the leader for us most of the time," said PHS coach Jim O'Neill.

The Offensive Award, a new award, was presented to outfielder Kevin Phox. Phox scored 36 runs for the Little Tigers this spring and was a perfect 24 stolen bases in 24 attempts — both PHS records.

John Kandell was presented the Most Improved Player Award. An outfielder, Kandell zoomed from a .200 average and four RBIs as a junior to a .329 average and 25 runs batted in — the latter the second highest on the team. "He made a great improvement. He carried us early on in the season," commented O'Neill

---

Junior Scott Porreca won the Most Improved runner-up award. Porreca came up from the jayvee squad to fill in the vacancy at second base left by All-Mercer County player Mark Adams.

"He played very well," said O'Neill. In his first year on the varsity, Porreca batted .313, stole four bases and teamed with Robinson to turn a number of double plays in the field.

Pirone Honored. The team players voted John Pirone the Sportsmanship award. A dangerous, extra-base slugger, Pirone had a fine year as a junior. "He was one of the key people we were glad to have back," said O'Neill.

Misfortune, however, struck Pirone this year and that expected great senior year never materialized. During spring practice in Florida, Pirone suffered an injury to his shoulder in a pool accident. It impaired his ability to throw.

As a consequence, Pirone was used only a few times as a DH hitter. Although forced to the sidelines, which he used to patrol like a caged animal in his frustration, he never missed a practice O'Neill reported.

Two three-year senior managers were also recognized for their service. Carolyn Van Houten was the team statistician and Dianne Myers the pitcher statistician.

SATURDAY IS DATE

For Mixed Doubles Event. The Princeton Community Tennis Program announces that its mixed doubles tournament for adults will be held Saturday at the Community Park Courts.

Since it is being held during National Tennis Week, the tournament will also be considered a Lipton Iced Tea Mixed doubles qualifying tournament. "Mixed doubles teams should tak advantage of this opporutnity to compete in a national tournament," tournament director Jenny Lehmann said.

Amateurs of all abilities may compete in the Lipton Mixed Doubles Championship. The winners of each qualifying tournament advance to one of 128 sectional events from which the winning team qualifies for one of 32 regional playoffs. Regional winners are flown to the national finals at the Sawgrass resort in Ponte Vedra, Florida, a competition held simultaneously with the $200,000 ATP men's professional Lipton World of Doubles tournament.

Players must submit entry blanks no later than noon Thursday. For entry blanks and further information, visit the Tennis Office, 71 University Place, or call 924-4343.

PHS PLACES FIVE

On All County Track Team. Five members of Princeton High School's track team--probably the best ever to represent the Little Tigers--were named to the All-Mercer first team.

They are Paul Miles, 100-meter dash; John Perkins, 1,500 meter; Tom Patrick, 3,000 meter; Stephan Fletcher, 110 high hurdles, and Peter Sharpless, high jump.

Named to the second team were Lamont Fletcher, 400 intermediate hurdles; Wayne Davis, 110 HH; Pete Young, shot put, and the 1,600 meter relay team of Lamont Fletcher, Ray Fisher, Jon Woolston and Paul Miles.

PHS was undefeated in dual meet competition, was the Colonial Valley Conference champion and the NJISAA Central Jersey Group 2 champion. It ties Asbury Park for the Group 2 state title.

REGISTER NOW

For Competitive Swim. The Princeton Recreation Department will begin its competitive swim program Monday morning at 8.

Those interested in participating may come to the pool to register or to Township Hall Annex. Registration will also take place at the pool on Tuesday and next Wednesday.

The senior program will meet five mornings per week, several evenings per week and selected Saturday mornings. Jeff Lowe, swim coach at Peddie School, will instruct this group. The fee for Princeton residents is $50 ($25 for each additional child in the family) for the program, which will run through August 14. Non-residents must pay an additional $15.

The advanced junior program will be coached by Claudette D'Arrigo. It will also meet through August 14 and has the same fees.

The Recreation Department also offers Princeton residents and season ticket holders a chance to swim with the Community Park Swim Team, which competes against other swim clubs in the area. The team will be coached by Bonnie Matheson and will meet on weekday mornings. The cost is $40 for the season ($25 each additional child). Non-residents may work out with the program, but may not compete. They will be charged $50 plus a $15 surcharge.

OPENINGS AVAILABLE

In Adult Tennis Camp. The Princeton Community Tennis Program's summer tennis camp for adults is in progress, but there is still space available for adult, intermediate and advanced players who wish to improve their game for the summer.

The camp is held every Tuesday and Thursday from 9 to 12 noon at the Princeton High School courts. Karen Rull, director of instructors, leads each session. The camp will run through Aug. 14.

For details and further information, call the tennis office at 924-4343.

Ping Pong Championships Here

The United States Open table tennis championships, being held at Princeton University's Jadwin Gymnasium Wednesday through Sunday, mark the first competitive appearance in the United States of the world champion table tennis team from the People's Republic of China.

Hundreds of ping pong players are expected to descend on the University campus to compete in dozens of different events, including men's and women's championship competition for singles and doubles, age group competition, and events for teams, wheelchair competitors, and novices.

The team to beat will be the Chinese, who are fresh from sweeping victories in all categories at the 1981 world tournament. Previous visits by the Chinese have been limited to exhibition matches, but at the Open they will vie with the United States superstars Danny Seemiller and Eric Boggan and top international players.

The participation of the team from the People's Republic also marks the 10th anniversary of "Ping Pong Diplomacy."

The U.S. table tennis team was invited to visit mainland China following the 1971 world tournament. They accepted, after receiving the blessing of the State Department, and became the first Americans received as guests in that country in two decades. The event, dubbed "Ping Pong Diplomacy" by the press, opened China to subsequent visits by President Nixon and other U.S. Citizens.

Last year's open winnner, I.F. Applegren of Sweden, will try to retain his title, and the Swedish team will be joined by others from Europe, South America and the Far East in their attempt to defeat the powerful Chinese.

Tickets are available at Jadwin Gym. The preliminary and team events will be on Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, with the championship matches played on Saturday and Sunday.

10K RACE SATURDAY

In Hopewell. The second annual Hopewell Challenge 10K race and a two-mile run for fun will be held Saturday morning at 10 as part of the Hopewell Community Day celebration.

The 10K run will follow paved and country roads in and around Hopewell; the fun run will be held on a flat course around town.

Post registration fee ($5) for both races will be accepted on race day until 9:30 at 84 East Broad Street. The first 200 entrants in either race will receive T-shirts.

Awards will be presented to the overall male and female winner and for the first three finishers in six male and female age categories. In the fun run, awards will be presented to the male and female winners in two categories: 14 and under and 15 and over.

Entry forms may be obtained at the Running Start store on Chambers Street or by calling 466-2660.

FREE CLINIC OFFERED

In Tennis. Princeton tennis director Arthur Cramp has announced that a free National Tennis Week instructional clinic for players of all abilities will be conducted Friday from 1:30-4:30 at the University Church Courts. "Our clinic is designed to introduce the sport to new participants and to improve the games of those who already play," Mr. Cramp said

Block Association

"Now we can snoop on our neighbors without feeling guilty," says a resident. "And we've become more neighborly than we have ever been — and we've had block parties here for 30 years."

Ends With a Bang. "The burglaries have stimulated people to talk to each other," adds Mr. Lombardo. "Since this positive action by the citizens the crime rate has dropped."

At least one association has been so successful that it now plans to close its books. The Princeton Quarry Park Association held its final annual barbecue chicken picnic last weekend in the park that it was instrumental in creating.

This Saturday night (Sunday in case of rain) the association will treat the public to a fireworks display that organizer David R. Guerzini promises will be "of gargantuan proportions," and 20 times larger than the display touched off last year.

After that, says Mr. Guerzini, "we will dissolve, effective September 1." What, no more Quarry Park association? Mr. Guerzini hedges: "Well, we may form a new organization," he says, expressing a common sentiment these days. "It's better to be organized."
